Education Board Told of Work Upon Creek Near School

Banks Were Sandbagged by Employes, Firemen to Prevent Any Flooding

Through the cooperation of board of education employes and the Kingston fire department the new Washington school did not suffer damage over the past week-end when the small creek which flows past the building swept over its banks. Sandbagging was resorted to to prevent water from entering the building. Fire engines pumped excess water into a sewer outlet and flooding of the boiler room was prevented.

This second threat within a short time of serious damage to the building by flood waters because of the failure to complete the Elizabeth street storm sewer project, caused the board of education to refer the situation to a committee for study at an adjourned meeting Tuesday evening.

Project Was Underway

When the building was erected the water condition was known but a project was under way by the city to divert the creek into the deep Washington avenue sewer and eliminate the flooding of the small enclosed line which carries the brook under Wall and Fair streets and empties it into the Wilbur avenue brook.

Temporary banks were thrown up to protect the building but the serious flood early this year flooded the boiler room and it was necessary to remove heating equipment to protect it from damage. Brick in the boilers was wet and, although no serious damage was done, further wetting could damage the fire bricks.

A study will be made of the situation and some measure will be devised to prevent future damage until the Washington avenue sewer and the brook are connected up. One suggestion was running a drainage sewer to an existing sewer on Wall street which may be able to handle excessive water. The matter will be discussed with city officials and the board's committee.

Drainage Proposals

Further waters will be thrown on the drainage system when the play area of the Washington School is black-topped and this situation will also be studied. It was proposed that catch basins from the play area divert the drainage to the Washington avenue sewer which has ample capacity to handle the storm water. This is a deep sewer constructed by New York city at the time the Ashokan resevoir was built to divert sewer lines from the Esopus creek to the Rondout creek.

Action was also taken toward having the city engineer establish grades at the Washington School so the play area could be put into condition by next fall. Establishment of grades etc., at that area and also at the high school area has delayed this work.

Field House Work

Trustee Herzog for the Building committee reported work progressing slowly at the field house on the high school site. Bad weather has delayed the work. The recent excessive rain also caused a portion of the foundation to buckle under the weight of new fill and some sections of the wall will have to be relaid. It is still hoped that the field house will be ready for use next fall.

Meanwhile the board authorized the Building committee to have plans and specifications for the cafeteria in the high school completed and advertise for bids for this work. Architect Gerard W. Betz has signed a contract for this job. Removal of the high school gym to the new field house makes available the space formerly used by the high school gym for cafeteria purposes.

The board adopted a resolution authorizing the issuance of tax anticipation note in the amount of $99,707.50 to meet principal and interest on bonds due July 1, 1952. Notes will run for two months and the interest shall not exceed 5% per annum. Under the law the note cannot be issued before ten days prior to July 1. This is necessary since the bonds and interest are due July 1 of

Absenteeism, No Pay

Washington, June 4 (AP)—Continued absenteeism prevented House action today on an appropriation bill to release funds for payment of overdue wages of thousands of postal and other federal workers. The 970 million dollar measure had been tied up in a Senate-House conference which finally reached an agreement on a compromise bill. Rep. Cannon (D-Co.) sought House approval of the compromise measure today but withdrew his request when Rep. Fisher (D-Tex.) noted the absence of a quorum.

Action Occurs in Three Koje Island Pens; Unruly Leaders Hauled Out—Boatner Directs Punch From Tower

Koje Island, Korea, June 4 (AP)—American infantrymen and tanks today knocked down and burned Russian, North Korean and Chinese flags in three Communist prisoner of war pens, then hauled out unruly prisoner leaders.

Not a shot was fired. The Reds submitted meekly although only a few hours earlier they had boasted they would "fight to the death."

The smartly-executed one-two punch at Communist prisoner disobedience destroyed all Red banners that flew today over this once riot-torn island. But camp authorities expect more may appear tomorrow.

Seventeen anti-Communist prisoners, their hands bound, were rescued from one compound.

The soldiers marched 75 other POWs out of a second compound. The group included five Red leaders and possibly some anti-Reds.

A few tear gas grenades were thrown as the American soldiers rushed into the barbed wire enclosures. Later they destroyed POW guard huts with flamethrowers.

Troops of the U. S. Second Division's 38th Regiment executed the operation. Their commander, Lt. Col. William F. Kernan, San Antonio, Tex., commented:

"We can go in any of those compounds anytime we want."

Brig. Gen. Haydon L. Boatner, Koje commander, personally directed two of the operations from a machinegun tower. It was another step in his campaign to bring order inside prisoner enclosures . . . and the fifth time tank-led troops had struck at POW disobedience.

Three Companies Crash Inside

Three companies, of the 38th, led by two tanks, crashed through the gates of Compound 85 housing 4,200 POWs at 12:30 p. m. to begin the operation. A third tank stood guard outside.

The tanks smashed down three large flagpoles, flying North Korean, Chinese and Russian flags. Troops ripped and burned nine signs tacked to inner barbed wire fences.

Pfc. Willie Hegwood, 21, Chester, S. C., scaled an arch at the gate and pulled down a painting of North Korean Premier Kim Il Sung. Others hauled out tables, desks and papers used by POW leaders.

In one tent, 17 bound prisoners crying "no Communist, no Communist" were rescued.

Last 15 Minutes

The operation lasted 15 minutes.

Then at 1 p. m. three companies of the 38th and three tanks charged into the 4,700-man Compound 96—one of the most unruly on the island.

Three flagpoles were ground to splinters by the tanks. Infantrymen destroyed a few small POW huts with flamethrowers. Then 75 prisoners were marched out, including five leaders.

This operation also lasted only 15 minutes. Boatner himself looked over the 75 POWs brought out and pointed out three disobedient POW leaders. They and two others were placed in an isolated jail.

These operations went so well that Boatner sent a company of

Kingston to Hold Birthday Party at Academy Green

Celebration to Begin With Organ Salute From Church — Speakers to Be Present

Kingston's birthday party is scheduled for 3:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the Academy Green, but bearing in mind the possibility of rain the Kingston Tercentenary Committee has made arrangements to move the festivities into the municipal auditorium in the event of inclement weather. The public is invited to the ceremonies and a large turnout is expected. There will be no admission charges of any kind.

To set the proper mood for the day, Donald Romme, organist of the First Dutch Church, will offer to the city an early-morning birthday salute. At 8:30 a. m. amplified from the steeple of the church, the cheery notes of "Happy Birthday to You" will ring out, followed by the "Doxology." The latter selection, the first lines of which state "Praise God from Whom all Blessings Flow" are particularly appropriate for Kingstonians on this occasion. It will underline the spiritual aspects of the whole Tercentenary celebration, and it was the most popular tune as secular music during the first hundred years of the colony.

As previously announced, Henry W. Stock, president of the Dutch Settlers' Society of Albany, and Mrs. Edward B. Cook, state regent of The Daughters of the American Revolution, will offer short addresses on the contributions made to the growth of Kingston by the early Dutch and by the patriots who won us our national freedom. Both groups will be convened in Kingston all day Thursday for a regional convention and pilgrimage.

To Re-enact Signing

Upon a platform erected on the green, a re-enactment of the signing of the original deed dated June 5th, 1652, between Thomas Chambers and the Esopus Indians will be presented under the direction of Mrs. Arthur Oudemool. The cast, authentically costumed as Thomas Chambers, Joannis Dyckman, the Dutch burghers and Indians, will include Roger Loughran, Samuel Scudder, William Murray, Howard R. St. John, Donald Romme, Harry Rigby, Jr., Fred Johnston, George Kernochan, William Dickinson and G. Herbert

Bill Debate Is Begun on Strikes Act

Maybank Offers Measure as Amendment to Expiring Controls Law for Nation

Would Pay Owners

Just Compensation Made Part of Proposal — Long Cooling Period

Washington, June 4 (AP) — The Senate jumped into hot debate today on a bill that would (a) forbid strikes in critical industries for 120 days, (b) set up a board to recommend settlement terms, and (c) allow the President to seize the industry if the terms were not accepted.

The measure was offered by Sen. Maybank (D.-S.C.), chairman of the Senate Banking Committee as an amendment to the expiring Economic Controls Law.

Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, a Republican presidential aspirant, quickly jumped on the Maybank proposal.

He said it would be "infinitely tougher on labor than the Taft-Hartley Act."

Cooling Off Period

That law calls for an 80-day cooling off period and a fact-finding board to report on the strike issues. The board, however, can not make settlement recommendations.

Under the Maybank proposal the President would "pay just compensation to the owners" after seizing a plant. He would not be allowed to change workers' wages.

The Maybank bill was the first move in Congress to resolve the dispute between Philip Murray's CIO Steelworkers Union and the steel industry.

President Truman seized the industry to prevent a strike on April 8, but last Monday the Supreme Court ruled the seizure unconstitutional.

The union promptly went out on strike.

Had Not Seen It

Maybank told the Senate his Banking Committee, which recommended extending wage-price controls until March 1, had not yet seen his amendment.

The controls expire June 30 unless extended by Congress.

Sen. Capehart (R-Ind.) demanded that Maybank send the amendment to the Banking Committee "for quick hearings."

"It may have very meritorious features, and then again it may not," Capehart said.

Maybank resisted that suggestion and told the Senate "I know management is not going to like it and I know labor is not going to like it. But I like it in my own conscience."

Taft said he saw no material advantage in the Maybank plan except that it possibly would provide more time for fact-finding than the Taft-Hartley Act. He said that in many places the amendment seemed to follow the Taft-Hartley Act's principles.

Japan Completes Action

Tokyo, June 4 (AP)—Parliament today completed action on a measure authorizing Japan's government to apply for membership in the United Nations.

State Civil Service Upholds Police Unit

Slim Lead Is Taft's In Dakota

Sioux Falls, S. D., June 4 (AP)—A handful of votes may tip the balance today in South Dakota's slam-bang presidential primary battle between Sen. Robert A. Taft and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

As counting of yesterday's record Republican balloting resumed, Taft clung to a slender, narrowing lead in a contest for 14 nominating delegates and the prestige of a victory in the final ballot box test before the Chicago convention.

The count, from 1,762 of the state's 1,947 precincts, was:

Taft 62,665.
Eisenhower 61,682.

Few Hundred Only

With an estimated 15,000 votes yet to be tabulated, the winner's margin seemed likely to be only a few hundred at most.

There was some talk of a possible recount, which could delay final selection of the state's delegation. Neither side wanted to commit itself on that point, however, until the unofficial tabulation was completed.

Many of the 225 precincts yet unreported lay in the war western area of the state, where Eisenhower was proving himself strong in the cities and towns but Taft was running ahead in the country districts.

The 14 delegates involved would not change the relative standing of the two major candidates appreciably. Taft had 420 delegates and Eisenhower 387 on the Associated Press tabulation, not counting South Dakota's.

Taft Gets 50.30

As the race neared its end here, Taft was getting 50.30 per cent of the vote, Eisenhower 49.70 per cent—narrowest margin in any presidential primary this year.

Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee took the state's eight Democratic delegates in stride. He defeated an uninstructed slate which had planned to vote on the first ballot at Chicago for Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, although Humphrey said he wasn't running against his friend Kefauver here.

This and victories elsewhere lifted Kefauver into a long lead in the Democratic delegate race. The Associated Press tabulation gave him 244 votes against 86½ credited to his nearest rival, Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia.

Warren, Kefauver Win

San Francisco, June 4 (AP)—Republican Gov. Earl Warren and Democratic Sen. Estes Kefauver captured California's big delegations to the national conventions with better than 2 to 1 margins today. Both victories over uncommitted slates in yesterday's heavy voting presidential primary came as no surprise. There was possibly wide significance, however, in the double rebuff suffered by Truman Democrats.

These Three Are Willin'

Common Council Is Faced With Variety of Problems

Steel Factions Accept Proposal

Will Meet in Washington to Discuss Ways to End Strike

New York, June 4 (AP)—Steel industry and union leaders today accepted a White House invitation to meet in Washington tomorrow with union and government representatives in a move to end the steel strike.

In Pittsburgh, Philip Murray, president of the CIO United Steelworkers, said:

"I have received the invitation and I will be at the White House meeting at 11 a. m. tomorrow morning."

An industry spokesman announced acceptance at a strategy meeting of presidents and board chairmen of seven of the biggest steel firms here.

A prepared statement issued after the two-hour session said the steel firms believe "that free and fair collective bargaining on both sides can bring this unnecessary and untimely strike to a quick end."

"They are ready to proceed with that kind of bargaining in a spirit of give and take," the statement said.

Pope Pius Is Ill

Vatican City, June 4 (AP)—Pope Pius XII is suffering from an attack of influenza and fever, an official Vatican press office bulletin said today. The bulletin said that the 76-year-old pontiff had canceled a program of audiences because of his illness, but that he received Msgr. Giovanni Batista Montini, Vatican substitute secretary of state, and other Vatican officials to discuss church affairs.

Ryan Move Is Lost by 10 to 3 Vote on Recall of May Resolution

Old and new issues boiled into a recessed meeting for local aldermen last night when the move to borrow from the water department for street work, the Sterling street dump problem, the police board-civil service question, rusty water, and industrial smoke, edged their way into what would have been a routine docket.

An effort by Alderman James K. Ryan, 10th ward, to "recall" for an investigation the resolution adopted last month to authorize the use of surplus water department funds to repair streets, lost by a party vote of 10 to three.

Alderman Benjamin Storms, second ward, explaining that new traffic studies would be required since the opening of the underpass, both on Broadway and along detour streets, first asked for the recessed meeting on June 18, but it developed it would have happened anyway, for consideration of Ryan's resolution on the Sterling street dump, and Seventh Ward Alderman Thomas Coughlin's bid for a report from the corporation counsel as to Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy's findings on downtown industrial smoke conditions.

Action Is Taken

The council also legislated to pay $4,950 in claims against the city for falls on sidewalks, each dating back two years or more, and voted to void the ordinance which made part of Smith avenue a one-way street when traffic detoured away from the Broadway underpass.

Great Britain Joins U. S. In Protest to Koreans

Pusan, Korea, June 4 (AP)—Britain today joined the United States in protesting to President Syngman Rhee over recent political developments in this temporary South Korean capital.

Alec Adams, charge d'affaires, orally outlined the British position to Rhee, then handed the aging leader a written statement. He told correspondents the statement backed up the policies of the U. S. State Department given Rhee in a note yesterday.

The American embassy also handed Rhee a note from President Truman which called recent political developments in Pusan shocking.

Informed sources said the British and U. S. notes expressed the same views on the South Korean political crisis as the United Nations Commission for the unification and rehabilitation of Korea. The commission recently asked Rhee to lift martial law in Pusan and release 12 opposition assemblymen under arrest.

The UN representatives voiced the opinion Rhee was attempting to control the presidential election in the assembly late this month by jailing his opponents.

Rhee softened his policy today, apparently as a result of the double-barreled protests from the U. S. and Britain.

A government public information office announcement said Rhee would not dissolve the Na-

Kingston Civil Service President Gives Data on Abolishment of Captaincy

Group Is Named

Council President Picks Three to Check Upon Police Board Report

Kingston's Police board, under the city charter, has the right to abolish rank and designate the extent of its manpower, a state civil service opinion, read at last night's Common Council session revealed.

Thomas J. Finnerty, president of the Kingston Municipal Civil Service Commission, who appeared at the meeting to reply to a council resolution asking for full information on the local police board's abandonment of the positions of captain and detective, presented the state opinion.

The council resolution, adopted unanimously at the last session, had asked both the local civil service board and the police commissioners to explain why the police captaincy had been abolished after an examination was held and a list of eligibility established, and why the position of detective had been left unfilled for some time.

No Police Board Reply

A reply from the police board was not received, and on motion of Third Ward Alderman Edwin Radel, Alderman-at-large Joseph Kelly appointed Radel, Fourth Ward Alderman Joseph Wenzel and Fifth Ward Alderman Samuel Perry to determine why the board had not replied and to report back at the recessed meeting to be held June 18.

Finnerty appeared with records read by Martin Kelly, secretary of the local civil service board, to answer the aldermen's seven-point resolution.

The council's resolution contended that the police board had made an unofficial announcement (in the press) of its discontinuance of the rank of captain after an examination was held, an elegibility list established, and created anticipation of advancement in lower ranks down to patrolmen.

Asks About 'Right'

Finnerty's letter to Joseph N. Silverman, personnel technician in the municipal division of the State of New York Department of Civil Service, he revealed, asked if the local police board "had legal and moral right" to abolish the position of police captain after it had asked for a promotional examination all along the line.

He asked also if "In the face of

Only One in 10 Donate to Cancer Crusade in City

After last night's meeting the 1952 Cancer Crusade committee regretfully announced that only one out of 10 people in Kingston donated to the campaign.

The interim report revealed that only 400 replies were received from 4,000 persons solicited by mail, with self addressed stamped envelopes inclosed, according to one director of the crusade.

"Only one out of every 10 people in the city of Kingston responded to a request for funds," he said, "that will be used to fight a disease that will afflict one out of every five people in this community."

Workers Discouraged

The report was received with discouragement by all the workers who gave of their time and untiring effort in an endeavor to get the funds so necessary to fight the disease that will kill one person every two minutes in the United States during the year 1952.

The workers were unanimous in their desire that an appeal be made to the people of Kingston to urge them to send a contribution, regardless of the amount, to help in this great fight.

Cash or checks may be mailed to George C. Bode, Treasurer, Cancer Crusade, Box 155, Kingston.

Six Representatives See Newspaper and Plane Parts Plant; Leave Bard College

A six-member team of German clothing trade union and management representatives yesterday made an inspection tour of two Kingston plants as part of their stay in the Hudson Valley at Bard College, Annandale-on-Hudson.

The group, accompanied by two interpreters and the official escort, Mrs. Figel Ronson, of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union, New York, first visited The Freeman to see how a modern American newspaper is produced and were then taken to Electrol Incorporated, 85 Grand street, this city.

Interested in Methods

Prior to their trip through the Electrol plant the group was carefully screened by Plant Security Officer Morgan D. Ryan. Following their visit there they expressed considerable interest in the "fluency of American production methods."

The group also visited the Senate House, this city, before returning to Bard College.

The German representatives, all from the West Zone, are under the

Travel Council Is Backing Plan on Road Financing

The New York State Travel Council today pledged its support to the Temporary Highway Finance Planning Commission created by the last Legislature and approved by Governor Dewey.

In a resolution, passed at the annual meeting at the DeWitt Clinton Hotel in Albany, the council pointed out that New York State business benefits by more than two billion dollars annually from vacation travel, and stated that nearly 90 per cent of all vacation travel is done by car over the highways of the state and that nearly 20 cents out of every vacation dollar is expended for automobile transportation.

The resolution pointed out that "a modern highway system is of vital importance to the travel industry of New York state" and called upon the Governor and the Legislature to "commence a program which will bring such a modern highway system into being as soon as possible."

The legislation calls for a "thorough study of the most equitable means of financing a long-range program for the rehabilitation and improvement of the state's highway system." The commission, not yet appointed, will consist of three members of the senate, three members of the assembly, the director of the budget, the superintendent of public works, the president of the state tax commission and four persons to be appointed by the governor.

The travel council membership is made up of resort and city hotel operators, regional promotional associations of the state, officials of public utilities, representatives of railroads, airlines and bus companies, owners of summer amusement centers and similar groups catering to the traveling public.

Attorneys Purchase Former Needes Home

The former Claude Needes residence at 86 John street has been purchased from the Shatemuck Realty Company, Inc., by Hubert A. Richter and Seymour Werbalowsky, local attorneys, they announced today.

The attorneys will convert the building into offices for themselves and for rental purposes. They plan to move into the new quarters about the middle of this month from their present location of 54 John street.

Because of its proximity to the center of Kingston's old stockade, they have named the building "The Colonial," Richter said. It contains five rooms downstairs and three upstairs.

The amount of money involved in the transaction was not disclosed.

CONTROL OF NARCOTICS

The problem of regulating the international flow of narcotics is extremely complex. The development and sale of narcotics may yield to control only when international inspection teams are allowed to check all narcotics-producing areas.

The United Nations Commission on Narcotic Drugs recently approved a plan which may curtail illicit shipment. It would prepare a blacklist of seamen and civil aircraft crew members convicted of smuggling narcotics. The names of these offenders would be turned over to their governments or unions for action that might result in the loss of their certificates or licenses.

Many ways will be found to get around this law. The ante for carrying illegal narcotics may be raised to the point where seamen and airmen will not care if they do lose their licenses. Civilians may also be enlisted to carry the goods ashore. Still, it may be effective at least in reducing the smuggling.

The basic law governing international narcotic drugs control makes it the responsibility of the governments to see that the output does not exceed legitimate requirements. Actually there is no reliable estimate available today of how large the world's supply for raw opium, coca leaves and Indian hemp actually is. Authorities estimate that an annual world output of one million pounds of raw opium would be more than enough to meet all medical needs, but that world production is more than four times as much as that.

Drugs are one of the world's great dangers to mind and body. They need effectual control. In serious accident or illness involving terrific pain they are balm to thank God for. Under other circumstances they are deadly peril.

INCIDENTS AT KOJE

Communist negotiators at the Panmunjom truce talks in Korea have taken full advantage of the propaganda possibilities of the riots at the prisoner of war camp on Koje island. They have assumed an attitude of righteous indignation at what they call atrocities and threaten to resume the Korean fighting full scale in retaliation.

The Reds always have been successful in provoking incidents. Labor riots, race disturbances and other forms of disorder have been frequently laid at the door of the Communist Party in America. Disorder, confusion and violence are the vehicles with which many Communist gains have been made.

The prisoners on Koje island have brought upon their own heads any trouble they have met. United Nations authorities disclose that of 237 prisoners who have died violent deaths 115 have been killed by other prisoners and 112 have lost their lives fighting against UN attempts to keep order.

The riots are an attempt to create a smokescreen to obscure the fact that thousands of prisoners held by the United Nations have stated that they would resist being returned to the Communist side. The ranting and raving at Panmunjom may also be an attempt to break off negotiations and lay all the blame at the door of the United Nations.

The Koje riots were an example of organized gangsterism. Communist fanatics murdered fellow prisoners, threatened prison security and the safety of their captor. The Reds will deceive no one by their claims nor convince any one with their threats in this matter.

FASHIONABLE SPARK

Many of the new "wonder fabrics" used to make clothes have a great deal to recommend them. Some of them are cheaper, more durable and look better. But there are drawbacks.

Wearers of some of the new fabrics complain that they have a tendency to cling, drape unbecomingly and give off sparks. Researchers attribute this to static electricity. The synthetic materials are poor conductors of electricity and retain the static charges.

That electricity has an effect on fabrics may come as a surprise to some. But it only reinforces the opinion of people who have observed some current women's fashions and found them shocking.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

DULLES ON ACHESON

John Foster Dulles was taken into the State Department as part of the so-called bipartisan foreign policy which he and Senator Vandenberg invented. The intention was good but the execution was futile. The Republicans were never actually consulted on major questions until consultation had lost all meaning. On China questions there was no consultation.

There can be no criticism of the President or Dean Acheson for going his own way, which is the President's privilege; on the other hand, there was no sense in calling a one-way policy, bipartisan.

John Foster Dulles did manage to handle our affairs with Japan, leading to the Japanese treaty, which he wrote. Having seen that document through to ratification, he resigned from the State Department and now he is no longer bipartisan. Under certain circumstances, he may be our next Secretary of State, and therefore, it is important that he recently said in a speech:

"The trouble is not so much what we have done, but what we have left undone. In the main, we have merely reacted sporadically to Soviet actions which pricked us. Our policies have not the scope, quality or competent execution needed to thwart the proclaimed and operating program of Soviet Communism. Also our policies have been too costly. We have paid too much for too little."

This can only mean that in the view of John Foster Dulles, our foreign policy has been inadequate because it has not been positive. It has only responded to challenges. It bogged along hopefully until Soviet Russia, which has held the initiative since Teheran (November, 1943), attacked us. Then our State Department went into high motion, but always late. An excellent example of lateness is the Korean War, which General Wedemeyer had foretold in his report of September, 1947; yet, the State Department in January, 1950, was acting as though there would never be trouble in Korea.

Russia's policy toward the United States has been blueprinted since 1918 and there never could be any doubt as to the Soviet hatred for the United States because it appears in full in the writings of Lenin and Stalin. Yet, our foreign policy from 1933 to 1945 was based on the assumption that appeasement of Russia, even by gifts of vast proportions, would alter the fundamental principles of the Marxian revolution. In fact, some officials of the State Department were Marxists and probably were appointed because of their affinity for the Russians.

So, Russia chose Asia as the battleground and there our administration made an inadequate defense. Both General Douglas MacArthur and General Matthew Ridgway have acknowledged that the defense was inadequate, admitting, however, that it was all that they could get from Washington.

Dulles emphasizes this lack of interest in the Far East by pointing out:

"Since Germany surrendered in 1945, our secretaries of state have taken 17 trips to Europe, involving 457 days of time. An 18th trip impends. (It has now occurred.) During this same period no secretary of state has ever visited a Pacific or Asian nation.. . ."

In a word, while Secretaries Byrnes, Marshall and Acheson emphasized Europe, where we are not fighting, they ignored Asia, where we are now fighting. As Dulles puts it:

". . . Asia is in a fair way to becoming what Stalin planned it to be: the road to victory over the West."

The question constantly arises as to why our statesmen continue to refuse to see our problem realistically, which obviously is that if we are defeated in Asia, Russia will have at her disposal all the manpower and resources of the east of Asia. No American or United Nations force exists in Korea or Japan capable of withstanding combined Russian and Communist Chinese military power defensively.

This was known on January 12, 1951, when the Joint Chiefs of Staff and General MacArthur agreed upon an offensive war. This concept of our strategy was cancelled by Washington. Today, the Russian and Communist Chinese power has increased, but the strategy has still not been changed.

Dulles says of this:

"So long as Soviet and Chinese Communist leaders can pick the time, place and method of aggression anywhere in Asia, and so long as our only reliance is to rush ground troops to meet the aggressor at the time he selects, at the place he selects, and with the weapons he selects, we are at a disadvantage which can be fatal. . . ."

That Body of Yours

DIET AND APPENDICITIS

I have written before of what was known as the Philadelphia experiment, in which the physicians of Philadelphia were able to cut down the death rate in appendicitis to the lowest rate known anywhere. These results were obtained by making sure, before every operation for appendicitis, that no food or laxatives were given.

In "Archives of Surgery," in Netherland Medical Journal, Dr. L. W. Van Ouwerkerk states that from a review of literature on the subject, he has gained the impression that acute appendicitis is comparatively frequent and dangerous in Northern Europe, America and Australia. Among the native population in Asia and Africa, but not among the Europeans living there, appendicitis is rare. When the natives eat the richer diets of Europeans, then they have a larger percentage of cases of appendicitis.

Before World War 2, appendicitis was fairly frequent and serious among the Dutch, both in Europeand Indonesia, but during the war the percentage of cases in the Netherlands decreased. With a diet consisting of inadequate or insufficient amount of rice, coarse vegetables and almost no meats or fats, such as was given to Dutch women and children in a Japanese internment camp, appendicitis almost disappeared. This seems to show that there is a relation between diet, particularly the fat content, and the number of cases and death rate of appendicitis. It would appear from the above that the eating of fat foods is a cause or a partial cause of appendicitis.

While Dr. Ouwerkerk does not mention the fact, we learned as students that disturbance of the gall bladder is frequently found with appendicitis. Many surgeons, if operating for appendicitis, enlarge the abdominal opening so that they can investigate the condition of the gall bladder and, if necessary, perform any surgical operation they find necessary.

It is interesting to examine the special diet for liver and gall bladder disturbances as outlined by Professor Sanford Blum, San Francisco, in his book, "Practical Dietetics."

Meats and fish to be eaten in liver and gall bladder disturbances are: Fresh meat, white fish, game or poultry once a week.

Meats and fish to avoid are: Salt, canned, preserved and spiced meats and fish; corned beef, pork, liver, fat bacon; herring, salmon, sardines in oil, mackerel; stews; goose, domestic duck, oysters and shellfish; fats and oils, fried foods of any kind.

The Resemblance Is Not Coincidental

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—Copies of more secret Chinese cables have just been obtained by this columnist, showing how the Chiang Kai-shek government conspired to pull the United States into a Third World War and how Chiang was in frequent touch with General MacArthur behind the State Department's back.

The cables were sent by the Chinese Embassy in Washington to Chiang in Formosa and have now been translated officially by the Library of Congress.

The most amazing cable is dated Dec. 5, 1949, and states: "Our hope of a world war so as to rehabilitate our country is unpalatable to the (American) people."

This policy of embroiling the United States in a Third World War in order to rehabilitate Chiang apparently was established immediately after the Red invasion of Korea on June 25, 1950. For, in a cable dated July 14, just three weeks after the invasion, the Chinese Embassy warns that they must be patient about their plan to extend the Korean war to the rest of the Asiatic mainland.

"Whether the Chinese Communists send troops to Korea or not is of secondary importance," the Chinese Embassy cabled Chiang, "but the war in South Korea will be extended in any case. We should remain patient at this time. Whether or not the war will extend to other places in Europe and Asia, we should make little comment and wait for the development of the situation."

Apparently, the Nationalist Chinese had reason to believe that certain of their American friends would manage to spread the war whether Chinese Communists came into Korea or not. Subsequent cables made it clear that General MacArthur was one of these friends.

Chinese Politburo

These amazing cables were prepared jointly by the Chinese Embassy's five top policy-makers. They former a sort of "politburo" inside the embassy, reporting direct to Chiang Kai-shek over the head of Ambassador Wellington Koo. In fact, one of their cables actually discusses the fitness of the ambassador to remain on the job.

The Big Five, who actually overruled the ambassador, were: Chen Chih-mai, Peter T. K. Pee, W. K. Li, K. H. Yu and Gen. P. T. Mow. They signed their cables with a joint code signature, "kung," the Chinese word for "group."

The cables are full of references showing that the Nationalists worked closely, sometimes secretly, with General MacArthur. For example, the Politburo inside the Chinese embassy reported, May 31, 1950: "General MacArthur will never give up assisting Formosa. The above things are said to be coming from the mouth of General Willoughby, himself."

Again, on June 29, 1950—right after the Korean invasion—the group, or "kung," cabled: "There are advantages and drawbacks whether or not we send troops to assist in resisting North Korean aggression. If our government has decided to send troops, they should be limited to some of our best troops and the opinion of General MacArthur should be obtained prior to their dispatch."

Marshall vs. MacArthur

A still later cable, dated July 7, 1950, laments: "It is impossible to expect a fundamental change in their (the administration's) policy toward China, but General MacArthur has a deeper understanding of us. We should pay attention to our liaison work in Tokyo, so as to influence the capital."

And on Sept. 12, 1950, the 'kung" inside the embassy reported: "There is a difference in political opinion between Marshall and MacArthur, and their personal animosity is very deep. Therefore, MacArthur's position will become increasingly difficult. . . . At present we receive material help from MacArthur's headquarters."

A report that MacArthur was planning to send American troops to occupy Formosa, back in 1949, is contained in a cable, dated Dec. 28, 1949.

"It is learned from Senators who returned from the Far East," reports the cable, "that General MacArthur believes that before the Japanese Peace Treaty is signed, America may send troops to occupy Formosa, but the Department of State and military headquarters (Pentagon) are worried that such action may produce domestic and international complications—so policy toward Formosa is still under consideration."

Just before MacArthur's famous visit to Formosa, when he gallantly kissed Madame Chiang's hand, the "Kung" reported in a cable, dated May 16, 1950: "Chih-mai has visited many friends and they seem to think that the key to American assistance depends upon General MacArthur's visit to Formosa, and the newspapermen all have the same impression. Our friends think that this is possible because of a peace treaty with Japan has not been signed. If we can work out a case of general defense with MacArthur's headquarters, then Congress may support it."

Overruling the Ambassador

The trouble over Ambassador Wellington Koo, who is supposed to be the boss of the Chinese embassy, was discussed in a cable dated Jan. 17, 1950. Koo's five "subordinates" cabled Chiang Kai-shek:

"When Madame (Chiang) was here in America, she expressed dissatisfaction with Ambassador Koo, and we hear that the government has intentions to replace him. We think that Koo is not the ideal person,, but because of his reputation and contributions, we believe he has done his best and ought not to be replaced. At this time, when the American administration is trying to recognize the Chinese Communists, we should not make any changes in diplomatic personnel."

Three months later, on April 4, 1950, the five complained again about the diplomatic personnel, as follows:

"Our diplomatic contacts are increasingly important, but our officers are not at their posts and those who stay in America are not suitable persons to discharge their responsibilities."

The Palace of The Street Sweeper

Mihtar-i-Mahal in Bijapur, India, was built by a street sweeper who was the beneficiary of a strange windfall. The astrologer of King Ibrahim II in 1620 advised the monarch to make a vow to pay a sum of money equal to about $100,000 today to the first person he met upon leaving the palace. The astrologer had arranged with a confederate to await the king and benefit by the vow. But the confederate died suddenly the evening before and a street sweeper, a member of the most despised cast in India, happened to meet the king. Overwhelmed by his good fortune, the street sweeper built and named (after his profession), the Mihtar-i-Mahal to commemorate his windfall.

Discussions Reveal Why There Is Varied Opinion on Far Eastern Questions

By DAVID LAWRENCE

London, June 4—Discussions here with members of the government as well as the opposition reveal clearly why there has been such a divergence of opinion between the United States and Great Britain over Far Eastern questions.

There is a total unawareness here of the motivating influences which have caused the American people to feel so deeply about the sacrifices made by American troops in Korea. To the British reader, Korea is just an incident. It is even less than a "police action" in the sense that other troubles in the world are considered to be far more important. The British are more concerned over what has happened in Malaya and over the danger spots in Iran, Egypt and North Africa.

"We have been fighting the local wars for centuries," said one British editor, "and we are used to the fact that you cannot always win them. But you Americans are apparently discovering for the first time that you can't win a war when it is sometimes expedient not to do so."

When reminded of the sacrifices being made by Americans in the Far East, there is, of course, deep sympathy and expressions of admiration for the bravery of our troops. But at the same time there is a tendency to argue that a "limited war" is all that can be expected no matter what course the truce talks take. If Britons are asked why intervention in Korea was approved in the first place when the risks of a large-scale war were even greater then than they are today, there is no clear answer given except that it was important to "halt aggression." Yet when it is pointed out that aggression hasn't really been halted, the reply usually is made that it was a good attempt anyway.

Talking with some of the leaders about the problem of Red China, it seems to be taken for granted that the British government in due time not only will reaffirm its position in respect to diplomatic recognition of the Communist government, but will some day argue for the admission of Red China into the United Nations. At the moment it is regarded by Britons as indiscreet to say much about this, but there can be no question about the ultimate intention of Great Britain to bring Red China into the United Nations. If it is suggested that this is "rewarding the aggressor," there is a shrug of the shoulders and a comment that "well, there are lots of unpleasant things that have to be done in the world when you are dealing with Russia."

Basically it is a peace-at-any-price sentiment. It runs through both political parties here. It is understandable, of course, in a way because Britain was bombed regularly for several years during World War 2 and, while the British will fight valiantly in the future as they have in the past, they may actually wait for an attack on their own territory before they give their consent to anything resembling a large-scale war.

Perhaps one of the most disconcerting aspects of British foreign policy is the tendency to water down every action which tends to show firmness on the allied side. The other day, when there was talk in the United States about a possible naval blockade in the event that the truce talks in Korea broke down, the Laborites were quick to interrogate the Conservative government here. The foreign secretary promptly said there was no commitment. This was like telegraphing the enemy that they need not worry about alternative measures. If the truce talks break down, it would appear there won't be any fuss raised about it anyway. When confronted with the implication of that kind of tactics, the British say, "Well, it is important to answer the questions of the Laborites in parliament."

The insularity of this approach and the indifference to the consequences throughout the world of a British public statement is something that is incomprehensible to anyone who has been schooled to believe that there is a universal alliance today of free nations, that they are working in harmony, and that their troops are fighting side by side against Soviet imperialism. Incidentally, a "left wing" leader told this writer he couldn't understand why in the eyes of the United States there was such a prejudice against communism when, after all, it was just a philosophy of life. Immediately upon being advised that the real antipathy in America is against Communist imperialism, the question was asked, "Where has there been evidence of it?" The "left wing" echoes the cry that the Chinese Communists are merely retaliating against American aid to Formosa.

Plainly, there is a wide divergence from the American point of view in connection with the Far East. The gap can be illustrated in the suggestion made to this correspondent by one "left wing" leader to the effect that the United States should conclude a truce by offering to withdraw its aid from Formosa and turn the island over to the Red Chinese. Upon being reminded that this was merely appeasing the enemy and buying peace at the expense of principle, that it was in effect rewarding the aggressor with the Formosan territory, the reply was made that some time ago a pledge had been given by the United States and her allies that Formosa would be returned to China. In other words, the arguments get technical, and there is little thought given to the fact that 500,000 American boys have faced the firing line in the Far East, that more than 100,000 of them have been killed or wounded, and that the draft is still calling between 30,000 and 40,000 American boys every month.

It is certainly a paradox in the relationship of allies.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

San Diego, Calif., June 3—The double-crossing, gouging and elbowing that went on among the American special legates who were sent to Moscow in one guise or another by Franklin D. Roosevelt probably baffled the Russians as much as their own bland lies, ingratitude and stalling mystified our people.

Admiral William H. Standley had hardly arrived in April, 1942, when he received a cablegram from the State Department requesting him not to discuss with Stalin or Molotov, the foreign minister, "any of the matters" which were the most important problems of the job. The admiral promptly replied that this order would undermine his prestige and refused to comply. He got no answer to this message. The subjects which he was asked to shun included the whereabouts of the corps of Polish officers who already had been slaughtered by the Russians in a mass at Katyn Forest.

Not until years later did the ambassador learn that his friend, Roosevelt, had pulled the rug from under him even before he presented himself at the Kremlin.

On the very day of his arrival, Stalin got a message from Roosevelt urging him to send Molotov to Washington "because I need your advice before we determine the strategic course of our common military action." Roosevelt had sent Harry Hopkins to London "relative to this proposal." This was the meeting which decided that the "second front" should be in France, not in the "underbelly" of Europe.

On the way in, Admiral Standley had met Major-General John N. Greely, of lend-lease, in Teheran waiting for visas for his party. The general tried to hitchhike a ride on Standley's plane but sensed that the Russians didn't want him. He believes Greely never did get to Moscow although he waited more than a year in Teheran for his visas.

When Standley's plane put down at Palm Beach for an overnight stop on the way to Moscow, paper-collar Joe Davies, who wrote the fatuous "Mission to Moscow," entertained the party at the home of his rich wife, the former Marjorie Post Hutton. Standley said the house was a palace which "reeked of richness." They dined on a "gold dinner service" with "solid flat silver" and Joe's colored butler punctiliously called him "Mr. Ambassador." Joe gave each of them an autographed copy of his book which he still regards as a master-work of history, diplomacy and literature.

In time, both Wendell Willkie and Davies went to Moscow, both swollen with the importance and mystery of their "missions" and an obscure colonel, named Philip Faymonville, got into the admiral's hair. Faymonville was promoted to brigadier-general for his "services" in lend-lease. He has received great praise from American Communist publications.

Another little complication in the task of an American ambassador was the necessity to ship back four homosexuals. General Marshall had asked the FBI to investigate, so an agent was slipped into Russia who got the goods on them.

Willkie's treachery has recently been confirmed in an article by Sam Rosenman, FDR's spook for certain speeches, who reveals be-

Approximately 47 students from kindergarten through sixth grade will be transported daily during the school session mornings and afternoons. A second contract to carry approximately six kindergarten children from the school to Wilbur at noon is being sought. The board will require personal insurance coverage in the minimum sum of $100,000 for one injury and $300,000 for more than one claim and also a minimum of $10,000 for property damage.

A report on the school lunch program was filed. From September through April a total of 110,243 Type "A" lunches were served, 20,516 being free lunches, and a total of 148,650 Type "C" lunches of which 4,777 were free lunches.

There was a cash balance of $5,031.43 in the lunch fund as of April 30, 1952. Inventories showed food valued at $3,418.36 on hand.

Superintendent Laidlaw submitted the attendance report showing total enrollment in the public schools of 4,906. Private and parochial schools 1,271 for a total of 6,177.

In connection with the attendance report Mr. Laidlaw made a report on prospective entrance to schools in the fall. A survey indicates a large increase in kindergarten entrances. At No. 5, it is estimated as many as 104 will register in the kindergarten, requiring from three to four divisions. There are now two divisions. Two additional rooms may be required in the fall for kindergarten. At No. 6, where there are now four divisions, there may be needed five or six divisions and it may be necessary to again move the cafeteria to the basement to provide room. Washington school may need an additional division. There are ample rooms provided. No. 7 may require four divisions instead of the present two divisions. Present trend indicates in two years all of No. 7 school rooms may again be in full use.

It was suggested that employment of an additional kindergarten teacher could be divided between No. 5 and No. 7 next fall, using the teacher a half day at each school.

In September 1953, Mr. Laidlaw said the school authorities would face a "serious problem" in taking care of the increasing registration as present increasing kindergarten enrollment moves on up into the grades.

It was also brought out that the board is facing a serious "economy" situation as the present school year comes to a close. Striking out of $48,000 in anticipated non-resident tuition because of legal action by non-resident districts is "pinching" the board's finances. Severe economy will be required to complete the present school year, President Rowland said.

The board adjourned to meet in special session on June 23.

Durwood Freer Hurt In Three-Car Collision

Durwood Freer, of Stephan street, suffered a head injury in a three-vehicle collision just before noon today at Hasbrouck and Delaware avenue.

Police said a panel truck operated by Emil Lambrase, of 3 Westrum street, a pick-up truck operated by Alfred R. Terwilliger, and owned by Terwilliger Brothers, of Albany avenue extension, and a sedan operated by Freer were involved.

The Lambrase truck was headed north on Hasbrouck avenue, the Terwilliger truck was going west on Delaware avenue and the sedan east on Delaware avenue, Sgt. William Messing said. Lambrase was apparently between the two others at the time of the collision, he said.

Freer was taken to the Benedictine Hospital for X-rays. All of the vehicles were towed from the scene.

Local Musicians Will Aid Ulster Grange Community Service Youth Project, June 12

CLEMENTINE NESSEL

Through the cooperation of the Musicians Local 215, the beginning of a youth program to be sponsored by Ulster Grange 969 in Ulster Park is expected to be a gala one. A dance and program of entertainment will open the community project at the hall in Ulster Park on Thursday, June 12, from 8 to 11 p. m., when Clementine Nessel and a sizeable orchestra will play for the dancing.

Four School Districts

Those to participate in the project will comprise the school children, to include the teen-agers, residing in Ulster Park, Esopus, Union Center and Anderson school districts. Final plans will be made tonight at the regular meeting of the Grange at 8 p. m.

Mrs. Earl Hopkins of Ulster Park is chairman of the youth committee and is assisted by Mrs. Gottfried Berger, Union Center; Mrs. Harold E. Jones, West Park; Mrs. Richard Gendreau, Ulster Park; and Mrs. Henry D. Polhemus, Port Ewen.

Youth to Select Program

The young people will have a discussion during the evening of the rally and decide for themselves what type of project they would like the Grange to sponsor for them. The decision to carry on this program for the community was made at a recent meeting when the need for it in the area mentioned was brought to the attention of the Grange, and George M. Hard, master, appointed a committee to investigate.

There will be no admission charged for the rally or refreshments, which will be served by the Service and Hospitality Committee.

The music is provided by the cooperation of the local musicians, of the American Federation of Musicians, through a grant from the Music Performance Trust Fund of the Recording Industry.

Kingston to Hold

DeKay. Narration for the tableau will be done by Howard C. St. John.

New background material uncovered by Captain Andrew S. Hickey in his forthcoming book "The Story of Kingston" was utilized in the writing of this scene. Galley-proofs examined over the weekend state "Thomas Chambers, Mattys Hendrix, Christopher (Christoffel) Davis, Johan de Hulter and others . . . became dissatisfied with living conditions at Rennselaerswyck and came to Esopus in 1652. Dutch records show that Thomas Chambers paid for 72 acres of land acknowledged in a deed by the Esopus Indians at Albany June 5th, 1652."

To Present Deed

At the conclusion of the deed signing, Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk will be presented with the deed, for public exhibition in Kingston for the remainder of the anniversary year. This sentimentally priceless original deed is the property of the New York State Historical Association and is normally kept in a vault at the Association's headquarters in Cooperstown. Mayor Newkirk will place the deed in the custody of Mrs. Emily Chadbourne, president of the Senate House Association, which organization will arrange to display and safeguard the document. It will be on public display daily from Thursday afternoon until early autumn.

At 7:30 p. m., the testimonial dinner to honor General Robert W. Hasbrouck symbolizing the veterans of all wars from the City of Kingston will be sponsored by the Tercentennial Committee at the George Washington School. Tickets for the dinner were exhausted Monday. Prior to the dinner, Mr. and Mrs. G. V. D. Hutton are presenting General and Mrs. Hasbrouck to the officials of the celebration committee at a reception at their home on Manor avenue.

Common Council

Radel said Ryan's resolution only called for an investigation to determine the facts.

Ryan then said he understood the city's water system had low pressure in many areas while new housing increased the demand for water and he saw the possible need for greater development of the system.

Cullum concluded argument saying "I agree we cannot spend something we haven't got," and he explained that when the resolution was adopted there appeared to be a surplus, and the resolution specified that the money would be taken only if and when such a surplus existed.

Ryan's long resolution on the Sterling street dump asked for an investigation of the city incinerator project by a committee that would report back at the next session.

Committee Is Named

Alderman-at-large Kelly named Ryan, and Alderman Martin W. Golden and John Dolan to serve and directed that their report be ready for the recessed meeting June 18.

Ryan's resolution said his predecessor James J. Carroll had pressed for elimination of the dump since 1946, and as a result a sign was erected reading "No Combustibles or No Garbage."

Ryan's resolution asking for further investigation of the proposal to appropriate $50,000 of water department money for repairing city streets, said "it now appears from the water department's statement that it has no surplus funds."

Admits Streets Need Work

Ryan said he will be "the first to admit that the city streets are in need of repair" but he said since voting for the proposal to use water department money, he had learned things which, he thought, warranted investigation.

"I will not at this point accuse the mayor of a deliberate attempt to mislead us," the resolution said, "but if what I have since heard is true, and I have every reason to believe it is, the mayor wrote that letter without proper investigation of the facts he set forth in that letter."

Alderman Robert Cullum, 12th Ward, stressed that the resolution said the funds be used if and when available.

'If and When,' Says Kelly

Ryan said this might have been true of the resolution, but the mayor's letter specifically stated there was a water department surplus. Alderman-at-large Joseph Kelly also recalled that the resolution moved to borrow from the board "if and when" the money was available.

First Ward Alderman Hirschell Mayes recalled that at the time the resolution was adopted the water department had a surplus fund of more than $72,000.

A Carroll resolution in September, 1948, called for a ban on inflamable materials, erection of a fence on Summer street and appointment of a night watchman, Ryan said.

Carroll also proposed a new incinerator, and was told by Ernest A. Steuding, public works superintendent that a new one would cost too much, but an addition to the present one would solve the problem, the Ryan resolution said.

In 1949, he said $10,000 was voted for plans, specifications and for the foundation of the addition, and late in 1950 the council voted $50,000 more. The resolution charged that "it appears that very little construction has been accomplished to show for the $60,000, and it asked for the committee "to investigate into the use of the monies apportioned."

Says It Was Due in 1951

The incinerator was supposed to be finished in the spring or summer of 1951, Ryan said, and he asked that the committee determine "why the enlargement of the incinerator has not gone forward as scheduled and why it is necessary to continue dumping in the Sterling and Summer street sections with the result in stench, smoke and inconvenience to residents of the Ninth and 10th wards, and the health menace created thereby."

Alderman Coughlin said action to curb the industrial smoke menace in the downtown area began four years ago, and about two years ago Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy prepared a report and left it with the corporation counsel.

Coughlin wanted to know "if anyone in the council knows what kind of a report has been filed?" The problem to him appeared to rest with the corporation counsel, who, he held, should attend council sessions.

An anti-smoke ordinance has existed in the city for some time, it was learned today, and Coughlin's argument last night was apparently for stricter enforcement of it. He asked that the corporation counsel make a report at the recessed meeting and that the fire chief's report be filed at that time.

Asks Water Board Act

Alderman William Parmalee, 13th ward, said he had offered a resolution at the last meeting asking for an investigation of a rusty water condition on South Wall street, and apparently no action had been taken.

He offered another resolution asking immediate action by the water board and with it was a petition bearing the names of 14 residents of the street.

Ryan referred to a Carroll resolution of October, 1951 asking for investigation of the condition of a barn to the rear of 20 Cedar street, and moved that a report be given on this. It was referred to the BPW and fire chief, because it was considered a fire hazard as well as dangerous and unsightly.

Vote to Settle Claim

The alderman voted on recommendation of Corporation Counsel James V. Connelly to settle a claim of $4,000 filed by Goldie and Samuel Jamieson against the city for injuries the former suffered in a fall in December, 1950 in front of 46-48 Hunter street.

Goldie Jamieson suffered an injury to the left knee and was treated for months the report said. An action was started against the city and the claimants later agreed to settle.

The other two claims were for injuries suffered in falls near 296 and 302 Fair street where a section of abruptly sloping sidewalk was built in conjunction with the reconstruction of Fair street.

Alderman Abram D. Relyea, 11th Ward, suggested that the BPW be notified of the claims and the sidewalk condition.

The one claim, filed by Ethel M. Schleede, in October 1950 was for $500, and the other filed in April, 1950 by Bertha Peckerman was for $450.

The J. B. Back & Co., Inc., cigar manufacturers, which recently purchased the School No. 1 property, asked that it be "zoned for business" and the request was referred to the laws and rules committee.

Request Disapproved

The council disapproved the request for a zoning change filed by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Tongue, of 9 Orchard street, on recommendation of the laws and rules committee, which said the proposal was heavily opposed at a public hearing May 22. The petitioners sought to use property at 41-47 Orchard street for storing cars.

The petition for a business zone designation by Jane D. Simpson affecting a property at 29-33 O'Neil street was granted because there was no opposition at the May 22 public hearing. The property is to be used for garage purposes.

A resolution by Alderman Ryan asked that City Clerk Bernhardt S. Kramer be directed to forward to the Public Service Commission a copy of a resolution adopted in 1949 asking that the New York Central Railroad install a bell and flashing signals at the South Clinton avenue and South Prospect street crossings of the Wallkill Valley railroad.

Ryan said the resolution was aimed at eliminating the inconveniences caused in the neighborhood by trains stopping and starting at these crossings. A recent check with the PSC, he said, failed to "disclose a record of said resolution."

Alderman Coughlin said he had served on the railroad and bus committee at the time, and it was indicated that action would be delayed until completion of the Broadway underpass project.

Alderman Radel submitted a photograph with his resolution asking for repair of a condition which causes a section of Grant street to flood after heavy rains. He said a "large lake" formed on the street between Lincoln and Meade streets, and the photo showed conditions after the rain of May 25. The request had been submitted twice in writing to the council and several times verbally for action by the BPW, he said.

Asks Parking Limit

Radel also asked for a 15-minute parking limit zone in front of the dry cleaning establishment at 66-68 Prince street.

Alderman Relyea asked that the BPW put its pumper at work as soon as water rises in the pond near the George Washington School on Wall street. Water goes into a house at Fair and Henry streets after backing up around the school during heavy rains, he said. He also asked that rubbish in the outlet be cleared away, and that the pumping unit be used after heavy rains pending completion of the Elizabeth street sewer project.

Alderman Golden asked the traffic committee to consider "no parking" sign in front of the office of Harry P. Sussin at 343 Broadway.

Blinker or Light Sought

Alderman Dolan asked that a caution blinker or a light be placed at Broadway and McEntee street, because this is a dangerous intersection and traffic should be given some warning.

Alderman Wenzel asked for the repair of Cross street from Second avenue to Moore street and Maple street from Murray to DuBois street.

City Clerk Bernhardt S. Kramer was granted permission to attend the state conference of mayors and city officials at Lake Placid June 10 to 13.

Mrs. Stella VanDeusen, of 159 Wilbur avenue filed a claim for $400 because of damages to her house, which she said, were caused by sewer and catch basin conditions during the past two years at the foot of West O'Reilly street. It was referred to the corporation counsel and auditing committee.

Delegations from the Junior League and College Women's Club attended to observe proceedings, and were welcomed by Alderman-at-large Joseph Kelly.

the 38th into Componud 60 whose 200 North Korean war crimes suspects Boatner has described as "pip squeaks." The soldiers fired tear gas bombs, then used axes to chop down three flagpoles. One flew a North Korean flag—the last defiant emblem on the island.

The troops withdrew in 10 minutes and as they slammed shut the gates, the North Koreans lined the fence and sang the Communist anthem "The International."

Boatner said he expected new Red flags and banners to appear tomorrow but added:

"We're ready for them."

State Civil Service

this action, have any of the candidates below the rank of lieutenant any legal rights under any law," and he asked more generally, "is there any positive legal action to counteract what the police board has done, available to this (the local) commission."

Finnerty's letter also asked if this police board action would "give the right to any other appointing board in the city of Kingston to take similar action at a later date?"

Board Within Law

Silverman's reply stressed first that the authority to abolish the position even after a request for an examination is found in the local charter, and he said: "There is nothing in the civil service law or in the rules of your commission which nullifies this authority of the police board."

Silverman held that the police board's action "is purely a matter of internal administration and we cannot comment upon the moral right of the board's action in this case."

Eligibility lists for the various positions, the state letter said, "will remain in effect for the duration of the period for which your commission has established them."

Rights to appointments begin when vacancies exist, he explained, and "candidates on all of these eligible lists do have the right to remain on them and may be certified to any future vacancies in the positions for which they have qualified."

No Jurisdiction

Silverman said further that "We do not find in our reading of your rules and the civil service law that there is any positive legal action that your commission can take to counteract or otherwise alter the determination of the police board's action to abolish the position of police captain.

He explained also that "The authority of other appointing boards or agencies to create and abolish positions under their direct jurisdiction may be found in the various sections of your city charter defining the powers of the various boards. The current action of the police board does not establish the authority of other municipal boards to abolish positions within their agencies. The authority to create and abolish positions is granted by the city charter."

Up to Counsel

Silverman said that his reply to Finnerty was not to be "interpreted as a formal opinion from this department. Section 37 of your city charter provides that your corporation counsel shall be the legal adviser of all city departments and boards, and as such, may at your request, render a formal opinion."

The examination to fill the police captaincy was called for after the retirement of William T. Roedell. Lt. William Leonard qualified by examination for promotion. Sgt. Robert Murphy topped the list for promotion to lieutenant.

Explains Detective Post

Finnerty explained that the position of detective is not filled through civil service examination but is an assignment given by the police chief to a member of the force never above the rank of patrolman.

The police department, since Detective William Krum left the force last year, has been operating with only one detective.

Alderman Radel thanked Finnerty on behalf of the council for appearing before the aldermen to make the requested explanation, and said "not one short note" had come from the police board to give its explanation as requested.

direction of Dr. Adolf Sturmthal, professor of economics at Bard College, and are making a six-weeks' study-travel program sponsored by the Mutual Security Agency.

Purpose of Trip

The purpose of the visit is to study methods by which American workers have come to accept the idea of greater productivity. It is hoped that if these representatives are persuaded that productivity is an accepted and highly respected doctrine throughout U. S. industry and that benefits accrue to the worker as well as to management, they will be able to influence German trade unions to adopt similar attitudes.

The representatives left Bard College today on the first leg of a trip to New England, middle west and southern textile plants. Prior to their departure from New York June 28 for Germany they will make a report in Washington in evaluation of their observations.

As Pegler Sees It

latedly that the progessional hick from Elwood, Ind., and Roosevelt, were putting their heads together when they were along toward death, to organize a new radical political party. And this was the fellow whom the Republicans nominated in 1940.

On the night that his plane got away for the flight to Moscow, Tom Dewey remarked "well, the fat boy is on his way. I hope the damned plane falls in the ocean." Dewey knew he was no Republican but the convention wouldn't listen. Now, Tom has adopted most of Willkie's stuff and joined the old Willkie sect in New York to nominate Eisenhower.

Willkie was notorious for his ignorance of good manners and he lived up to his billing in Moscow. Standley says Communists in Willkie's staff got in touch with former Communist friends of Joe Barnes, formerly an editor of the New York Herald-Tribune, and arranged an interview with Stalin. Standley was excluded.

Later, Willkie told Standley that Stalin had given him information so secret that he could not even tell the ambassador. Standley burned and went back to Washington to "protest to the President the sending of such temporary would-be diplomats." On this visit, he insisted that Faymonville be put under his jurisdiction because the Russians were going over the head of Colonel Michella, the regular military attache, and, as Standley puts it, were "getting improper information through General Faymonville." The policy of lend-lease was to give the Russians whatever they asked for, including information.

Roosevelt stalled but finally Faymonville was made subordinate to the ambassador and Standley went back to Moscow. His parting words to FDR were, "Chief, you got your fingers burned with Willkie; don't do it again."

But in March, 1943, Davies came bustling in with his idiotic movie, "Mission to Moscow," and a secret letter from Roosevelt to Stalin. Standley now decided to quit and make it stick, but his letter to Roosevelt was a weak thing. He did not base his resignation on the duplicity and humiliation but on age, health and a sense of inadequacy for the job of making peace terms.

Davies had installed extra electric sockets in the embassy cellar when he put in his brief hitch as ambassador to run the freezers containing his great hoard of preserved American food. Now, for his precious comfort on the hokum journey to hand Stalin a letter too important for the ambassador to touch, Joe brought his personal doctor, his valet in the guise of an army corporal to supervise his food and a naval lieutenant who was his nephew, as secretary.

Joe began throwing parties at the mansion provided for him, held press conferences, gave out press "releases" and, in Standley's words, "played the clown" until he got indigestion and was laid up.

Standley's resignation was already in Roosevelt's hands so he took this conduct without a protest. But when Joe's nephew, the naval lieutenant, started holding press conferences and giving out "releases," Admiral Standley blew up and told Joe to make the kid behave.

The awesome secrets that Willkie and Joe imparted to Stalin and vice versa never have been revealed.

Yeaton Gives Testimony

Washington, June 4 (AP)—A top World War 2 intelligence officer went before Congress today to tell how the army handled information concerning Russia during the years the U. S. and Soviets were allies. Col. Ivan Yeaton, former chief of the eastern European section, was called by a special House committee trying to track down a politically touchy series of documents now officially reported as lost.

Wicks Company to Meet

There will be a meeting of the A. H. Wicks Engine and Truck Company at its headquarters, 17 Wiltwyck avenue, Thursday at 8 p. m.

RESOLUTION

At a regular meeting of the Kingston Kiwanis Club held at Kingston, New York, on May 29th, 1952, the following resolution was offered by the Committee appointed for that purpose, duly seconded and unanimously passed and the Secretary of the Club was directed to forward one copy to the family of the late Morris Samter, one copy to the Executors of his estate, one copy to the press for publication and was instructed to spread one copy in full on the minutes of the Club:

"WHEREAS in the tragic death of the late Morris Samter, President of the Kingston Kiwanis Club in the year 1935, the Club has sustained a grievous loss, be it

"RESOLVED that those members who knew him well will always remember him as a man of noble disposition who was always happiest when others could share their happiness with him; he was a man whose life was devoted to progress and faithfulness to duty and possessed of a sense of humor which sprang from the heart but was never offending and he was always mindful of the sensibility of others; he was modest of his attainments and in in his personal bearing, sympathetic and helpful to those who needed help; his life was fortified by many friendships formed on the basis of a belief that the only way to have a true friend is to be one; he was possessed of a quick and sound judgment, good common sense and a kindly feeling toward those with whom he came in contact; Although he was denied the comfort and satisfaction of having children of his own, he was ever deeply interested in the work of the Kiwanis Club which gave its attention to the underprivileged child and this attitude was extended to the community in which he lived and exemplified by his service and generosity. A tangible and substantial evidence of this benevolence is demonstrated by the terms of his Will by which he established a trust fund to be administered by the Directors of the Kingston Kiwanis Club for the purpose of providing a liberal scholarship to worthy students yearly, for a long period of time.

"To those of the newer members of the Club who have not been privileged to know Morris Samter his record among us and the example he has given will be a constant source of inspiration.

"Though death has put his hand on one we loved and he has passed through the dark entry, he will ever be revered as a faithful member of the Club and an admirable member of society."

Justice Russell Is Heart Victim

Pierce H. Russell of Troy, retired Supreme court justice, who presided over many terms of Supreme court in Kingston during the 21 years he was on the circuit, died suddenly at Rochester Tuesday. Justice Russell, 74, collapsed an hour after opening of a state-appointed committee's hearing on the issues in Rochester's recent transit strike. He was chairman of that committee.

Justice Russell died before he could be taken to a hospital. A physician attributed death to a heart ailment.

His son, Pierce H. Russell of Troy, a widely known amateur golfer, flew to Rochester and is making arrangements for the funeral which will be held in Troy.

Justice Russell, a Republican, presided over several court hearings in connection with the Dewey administration's special grand jury investigation which sought evidence of crime in Albany county several years ago.

Served 23 Years

Elected to the Supreme court in 1925, Justice Russell served 23 years on the court, the last two of them as a member of the Appellate Division before his retirement in 1948. During the time he served as a trial justice he presided over many trial terms in Ulster county and won many friends among the members of the bar through his keen knowledge of the law and his fair and understanding interpretation of the law. He was a man who was "always fearless but invariably kind" according to one of the justices who learned of his death yesterday.

In addition to his son, survivors include two daughters, Mrs. William Morrell of Pittsburgh, and Mrs. Hugh L. C. Stevens of Nashville, Tenn. His wife the former Hazel Hull, died several years ago.

It was the first International Eucharistic Congress to be held in 14 years.

Fire-Breathing Monster

In Greek mythology a Chimaera was a fire-breathing female monster with the head like a lion in the foreparts, a goat in the middle and a dragon behind and the word has come to mean any fantastic idea.

Man Killed in Albany

Albany, N. Y., June 4 (AP)—A 72-year-old man was clubbed to death today with a makeshift cane state police said was wielded by a fellow resident of a home for the aged. Police said Henry Stahlberg, 69, would be arraigned on a charge of first-degree murder in the death of Martin Walsh. An assistant district attorney, Andrew Pinckney, quoted Stahlberg as saying that Walsh had been bothering him and calling him vile names for more than two years.

PRISONER'S FIGHTING GEAR—Lt.-Col. Mills C. Hatfield, of Ada, Okla., commanding officer of UN prison guards at Pusan POW enclosure No. 10, displays "uniform" blouse worn by one of the leaders of the recent riot in the enclosure. Against the wall are ranged some of the weapons fashioned by the Red captives.

Financial and Commercial

New York, June 4 (AP)—Strength in a handful of rails today put a substantial prop under the stock market.

Atlantic Coast Line Railroad was up more than 5 points at times and a few other rails gained from 1 to 3 points. The bulk of the carriers, however, were ahead fractionally.

Elsewhere the upside extended by fractions to between 1 and 2 points. Losses were virtually all fractional.

Coast Line was evidently spurred by highly favorable earnings reports and a Wall Street belief that a split was not out of the question. At its best today it traded between 113 and 114 points. Most of the other big rail gainers were in the higher price brackets where splits are possible.

Steels held small gains in quiet trading as steel industry management and labor responded favorably to a White House call for a conference tomorrow aimed at ending the three-day-old strike.

Good Taste Today

(Author of 'Etiquette,' 'Children Are People,' etc.)

I AGREE WITH HER

A wife writes me: "While my husband was in the hospital a short while ago, a business friend of his and his wife came to visit him. He was looking out of his window on the third floor at the time and saw them coming. My husband said it was my duty to go down and greet them and bring them up to his room. I told him that I never heard of such a thing and refused to go. As he still holds this against me, I decided to write and ask you whether I was wrong."

Had his room been on the ground floor, then you certainly would have gone out to meet them and brought them in. But considering it was three flights down you would have been quite likely to miss them and it was much better to wait for them at the open door of your husband's room.

Concerning Table Service

Dear Mrs. Post: My mother lives with us. She sits on my husband's right at the dining table. Should she be served first, or should I? (2) Recently I attended a dinner party at which all the women were served first and then the men. Is this ever correct?

Answer: (1) She should. Correctly, the hostess is never served first when there is another woman at the table, unless she has reason to fear that there is something wrong with the food that will have to be remedied by her, before being offered to her guests. (2) Correctly, the lady on the right of the host is served first and then each guest is served in turn—men and women both—as they happen to come. If the host is carving, the plates for the women are filled and passed first.

Courteous to Answer

Dear Mrs. Post: I answered an advertisement in the papers for office work. This was simply to a box number. The reply says to come for an interview at a certain time, but it's from a company I would not like to be connected wtih. How should I acknowledge this card, or shouldn't I?

Answer: It would be very courteous to write and explain that you have a previous appointment for an interview at the time they have set aside on another job, which you have every hope of getting.

Will Resume Training

Washington, June 4 (AP)—The air force said today it will resume flight training for reservists on a limited scale at 22 locations this summer. The air force formerly had 25 reserve training centers at 23 locations but suspended them during the current fiscal year, ending June 30, because of aircraft for training purposes. Locations where flight training will begin in July, or during the first quarter of the fiscal year starting July 1, include: Troop carrier training—Mitchel Air Force Base. Single-engine flying training—Floyd Bennett Naval Air Station, Brooklyn.

SIGNS OF TROUBLE—When Harry Kahn put up a sign "Lowest Prices in Town" over his Detroit clothing store, William Broad, his next-door competitor, saw a golden opportunity. Broad put up a sign, in the same red lettering, that read: "At Wm. Broad's." To all practical purposes, that made his and Kahn's advertisements all one big sign—with Broad's business getting a big boost at half cost. In the rhubarb that followed, both men wound up in the prosecutor's office. Law officials could find nothing wrong with either half of the sign, but a surveyor's measurements showed that Broad's "A" encroached on Kahn's half of the building. So he will have to shave the "A." but still holds the upper hand as far as the customers are concerned.

Service to Blind Club
177 Green Street
Kingston, New York
May 26th, 1952

Editor, The Freeman:

In San Antonio, Texas, there is a club of public-spirited men and women who share their eyesight with the blind. This club is independent of the various Lions Clubs of the Alamo city. Its purpose is to provide the commonplace services of which the blind are so much in need. As this is not a Lions activity, neither is it a church activity. Men and women of all religions or no religion, moved by a desire to put their eyes to the best use have formed the Service to the Blind Club.

Kingston and Ulster county and every other place on earth could do the same thing. All that is needed is the desire to live usefully. Possession of eyesight does not denote a great achievement. Eyesight is an outright gift from God. I would like to see Kingston organize a Service to the Blind Club. The San Antonio group competently aids the blind in a thousand and one ways. Escort service to concerts, public affairs of all kinds. Escorts to recreations, such as walking in the country, getting acquainted with nature, swimming and sun bathing, berry and flower gathering, aids in the starting and tending of window plants, instructors in the recognition of trees and plants by touch and in the recognition of birds by their various calls. These are some of the services rendered quietly and pleasantly by the service group.

Visits to the grocery store, tailor, shoemaker, barber, public library and park, reading and looking up references for blind persons in search of various data are other services. Auto rides, just plain talking about interesting topics, finding suitable dwelling places, arranging for dances where sighted and sightless get acquainted, interesting churches in having sightless persons escorted to church, lending a hand in grass cutting and such chores, installing and maintaining telephone service, so that the blind can summon aid in case of emergency, and so that the blind might converse with friends. These and other acts of neighborliness are constantly being performed by the Service to the Blind Club of San Antonio. The idea is bound to spread. The isolation of the blind will end when the idea is nationally operative.

Realization, by intelligent persons of good will, that the Lighthouses for the Blind, State Commissions for the Blind, etc., had next to no influence in improving the daily lives of the blind, spurred the civic-minded sight sharers of the city of San Antonio to give the average citizen possessed of good eyesight the opportunity to do for the blind, the necessary things that require eyesight in the doing. This letter, if published, will afford Kingston citizens an equal opportunity. I shall be happy to advise on all points. Let the light shine in Kingston.

Sincerely,
WILLIAM J. LYONS

Warm and Pleasant

(By The Associated Press)

It was fairly warm and pleasant weather over most of the country today. Showers fell in areas from the eastern Great Lakes region southwestward into Kentucky and in the Missouri and upper Mississippi Valleys. There also were light showers in western Washington. Temperatures were around normal over the north-central states and northern plains. They were in the 90's over most of the south yesterday.

Forests are found more than 100 miles beyond the Arctic Circle.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, Jr.

Handsome Volume To Record Names, School History

Woodstock, June 3—A year ago a group of Woodstock citizens, who wished to erect a living monument in memory of their relatives and friends, organized a project to plant trees around the driveway leading to the Woodstock School. Instead of the usual plaque bearing the names, it was decided to have a handsome book made to be used as a perpetual record book of the school. The names of the members of each graduating class will be inscribed in a page of the volume, as well as an account of all important events relating to the school's activities.

The fine parchment book was designed, made and illuminated in color with Gothic script by David P. Fairbanks, one of the few experts in the art in this country.

Visitors are invited to come into principal Walter Van Wagener's office to inspect the book.

The inscription reads as follows: The Record Book of the Woodstock Grade School — This book and the 25 maple trees encircling the driveway are the gift of a group of friends in memory of their loved ones.

The list of the memorials with their donors are as follows: to Charles P. Pierpont by William and Dorothy Pierpont; to John Alexander Peacock by Mr. and Mrs. Washington L. Wilbur; to Julian Victor Ronder by Alfred D. Ronder; to Cornelius N. Riseley by Ida M. Riseley; to Ralph Radcliffe by Peter Whitehead; to Carl Olaf Eric Lindin by Louise Hastings Lindin; to James Hitchcock Wardwell by Alice W. Wardwell; to Walter E. Weyl by Bertha P. Weyl; to Harry Sullivan Endsley by Katharine Endsley Boyd; to Clare Guzzi and Kalman Hecht by Blanche G. Hecht; to Angela and William M. Gilliland by Thomas Gilliland Robinson; to Samuel Gregg by Kitty Evans Gregg.

The first graduates of the Woodstock School District No. 2, to have their names inscribed in the book, whose graduation exercises were the first to take place at the new school, June 22, 1951, are as follows: Elizabeth Ann Wagenfohr, Stephen Scott Townsend, Richard Charles Hilton, Barbara Jean Hastie, Peter Stephen Cohn, Louis John Bolger, William Heckeroth, Roberta Kullman, Louis Ostrander, Deccia Wilbur, Ronald Locke, Peter Pike and Lee Carey.

Dress Rehearsals Held for School Play This Friday

Woodstock, June 3—The production of The Seven Ravens, to be presented by the Woodstock School children, under the auspices of the Parent-Teacher Association, with two performances Friday, June 6, reached the dress rehearsal stage early this week. An air of professional excitement pervades the Woodstock School.

Much of the voluntary labor and time has been contributed by the adults, and serious work on the part of students in, and associated with the play. The matinee will begin at 2 p. m., and the evening show at 8 p. m., in the auditorium of the school.

The play itself was developed from the short but charming Grimm's Fairy Tale, which in its original version may be read to a child in about five minutes. Mrs. Carl Hubbell, using the tale as a basis, has enlarged the story into a 25-character play, peopled with real, enchanting little characters. Mrs. William Stifler, who is directing the production, is particularly enthusiastic about the part of the tiny dwarf in the last act. Played by Konrad King, the little fellow is transformed from a merely functional part of the ending of the story into an engaging personality. All of the dialogue is a product of Mrs. Hubbell's whimsical imagination. The story has been transformed into a one-hour play, exclusive of scene changes. With these necessary changes, the play will run for two hours.

The production committee would like to express its appreciation to all who have made the play possible. That their efforts have been truly appreciated, is best voiced, perhaps in the comment of one of the children in the play, "This is so different, and so much more fun than other plays we've done."

When the New England Regional opens June 13 in Scituate, Mass., Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ackerman, of New York, will turn up to defend the open pair championship which they won this tournament last year. The hand shown today helped them win that championship.

Mrs. Ackerman's bid of three spades on the North hand asked South to bid three no-trump, if he could supply a stopper in spades. Mr. Ackerman obediently did so, thus landing in a rather risky contract.

West opened the six of spades and dummy won with the queen. Mr. Ackerman knew that the opponents would take four spades and the ace of diamonds as soon as they got in, so it was up to him to take nine tricks on the run, if he could.

Prospects did not seem very bright, but nobody ever wins tournaments by giving up before the last card is played. Mr. Ackerman therefore ran the five club tricks, ending in his own hand.

West blithely discarded the eight of diamonds, and was still cheerful when he discarded the deuce of diamonds. His next discard was, however, not so easy to find.

If West released a spade, the defenders could take only three spade tricks, in which case declarer could afford to give up a diamond. Obviously West could not throw away the ace of diamonds. West therefore had to part with the nine of hearts.

Mr. Ackerman noted West's embarrassment with hope and the final appearance of the nine of hearts with great interest. He led the jack of hearts, West covered with the king, and dummy won with the ace of hearts.

There was still the question of whether to finesse the eight of hearts on the way back. The situation was pretty clear, however, and Mr. Ackerman promptly led a heart to the queen, dropping West's ten of hearts.

The lowly eight of hearts now provided the ninth trick and a championship to the Ackermans.

Strong Notes

Munsan, Korea, June 4 (AP)—United Nations and Communist truce negotiators today exchanged strongly worded notes on prisoners of war. The Reds backed theirs with a renewed threat that Red armies in Korea might march. North Korean Gen. Nam Il laid on the Panmunjom conference table a written protest against what the Reds termed "barbarous and cowardly" treatment of captured Reds on Koje Island. Maj. Gen. William K. Harrison, Jr., demanded that the Reds "without further delay" account for nearly 1,000 United Nations soldiers believed captured by the Reds but never listed by them. The 34-minute session produced no progress toward settlement of the truce blocking issue of what to do about 100,000 captured Reds which allied screening showed refused to be repatriated in the event of an armistice. Only 70,000 allied held POWs have said they would return to Red soil without a fight. The Communists demand that all their captured soldiers be returned. The allies say no one will be forced to return.

Compromise on Tunnel

New York, June 4 (AP)—A new 85 million dollar third tube to the Lincoln Tunnel was a step nearer reality today as a result of an agreement that removed the city's major objections to its construction. Under a compromise reached yesterday, it was agreed that the Port Authority widen 30th street at some points when the tunnel traffic reaches 30 million vehicles a year. The Port Authority also will build new links between the tunnel and the west side highway when that figure is reached. In turn, the city is to provide such needed real estate at an estimated cost of $1,545,000.

SHOKAN

Shokan, June 3—The first lesson in the course of Self Help and Neighbor Help, as inaugurated by the nursing committee of the Town of Olive, is scheduled to take place Wednesday evening, June 4, at Olive Bridge firehouse. Instructions in the care of shock patients and the use of the resuscitator will be given by Mrs. Zimmerman and Mrs. Angell.

Mrs. Wm. J. Loos and three children, Josephine, Patricia and Margaret, of Inwood, L. I., spent the holiday at the Loos summer bungalow on the Ridge Road. Josie had as her guest Joan Partland of Richmond Hill, a fellow student at the Lawrence High School. At the James Carpenter camp also in the Ridge section, were Mrs. Loos' brother-in-law, Patrick Kelly, and daughters, Carol and Kathy. Patrick is an employe of the Long Island Rail Road.

Spring barnyard casualties up the line included the rabies death of a cow on the Walter Scrambling farm at Canonsville and the fatal poisoning of four calves, worth $100 apiece, belonging to Thomas Gunn of Downsville. At West Meredith, E. G. Sutherland forgot to close his henhouse door one night with the result that foxes massacred all but five of his 27 heavy fowls. Feathers were scattered all over the farm according to the Walton Reporter which says that Sutherland has had to kill all of his cats on account of their having rabies.

Local Freeman readers found much to interest them in Reporter Thibaut's well-written story on Alex. Peacock, Woodstock's nonogenarian Boer War veteran. The article was especialy pleasing to older residents of Shokan who recall that "Sandy" and his family, including John who saw much combat service in War 1, resided here for many years. The Peacocks resided on the present Thomas Peck place on the mountain and also in the house in the village which Alex built adjoining that of his sister, Jane Stubley, who died at her home on Long Island earlier this year.

Rudolph Juralek of Monticello has been spending part of his vacation at the home of his sister, Mrs. Thord Fredenholm, and while here painted the roof and front side of the Fredenholm house next door to the Baptist Church. Rudy, a former resident of Shokan and a mason by trade, exemplifies both skill and speed in handling the paint brush.

Broken car springs and possibly a serious accident may fall to the lot of some hapless motorist if the state highways boys do not soon fix the deep holes in the road shoulder at the corner store. The traffic hazard at this busy corner has continued, off and on, during the past two years.

When the United States Military Academy first opened in 1802 it had 12 cadets.

LOVE MAKES ROOM FOR ONE MORE—"Bring her home, there's always room for one more," is what Chicago attorney Charles A. Boyle, right, father of six, heard when he asked his wife if he could bring home an orphaned five-year-old girl. Boyle is seen as he received approved adoption papers from Judge Jarecki, left. Boyle's wife, Helen, is at left of group of children and Lorna Irene is front, center. The Boyle children are: Michael, 3; Larry, 2; Tom, 8; Rose, 6; Mary, 9, and Patrick, 10.

tional Assembly now. Earlier he was reported on the verge of disbanding it.

Also, at Rhee's ordere, military authorities released a newspaper editor who had been arrested after criticizing the government.

Martial law authorities were ordered not to arrest any more assemblymen not directly involved in what Rhee has called a "Communist plot" against his administration.

Government sources said some high officers directing martial law m. be reprimanded by Rhee for going too far in jailing some of Rhee's political opponents.

Truman's note to Rhee was not made public. But a government source said it asked Rhee to take no "irrevocable action" until U. S. Ambassador John J. Muccio could return here from a shortened vacation with additional views of Mr. Truman.

The informant said the action referred to apparently meant dissolution of the assembly.

The assembly went out of business yesterday when 52 pro-Rhee members announced they no longer would work with lawmakers they labelled "corrupt."

Rhee and a majority of the assemblymen have long been at odds.

150 Candidates Report for PONY Baseball League Registration

Ruby Goldstein Answers Everything Except Who'll Win Charles-Walcott

DICK McCARTHY RUBY GOLDSTEIN

One of New York city's most notable contributions to professional boxing and currently the nation's No. 1 referee paid our town a business call a few days ago.

Meaning, Ruby Goldstein, of course.

On the eve of the world's heavyweight championship bout between Jersey Joe Walcott and challenger Ezzard Charles, the flashy performer of the 1930s refused to be lured into a prediction.

"It can go either way," he said blandly. "Remember when Louis was 5 to 1 over Walcott?"

Voted for Walcott

The writer did. Few who ever saw that historic thriller will ever forget the turmoil at Madison Square Garden's ringside. Goldstein was the third man in the ring that night. He voted for Walcott but was overruled by the two judges.

Thus did Joe Louis retain his world's crown in one of the most disputed decisions on record.

The writer, who saw the bout with Dick McCarthy and Bob Stone, remarked that all three agreed with Ruby's decision.

"I couldn't see it any other way," Ruby, now a prosperous looking liquor salesman, recalled.

Second Visit Here

Goldstein was making his second stop in Kingston in a couple of years. Two years ago he and the inimitable Vernon Lefty Gomez, of Yankee pitching fame, delighted a Kingston Athletic Association Hot Stove League banquet with stories about baseball and boxing.

The one-time boxer who is generally assigned to most of New York's bigger boxing attractions, lunched at the Hotel Stuyvesant with Bill Hopper and Sam Kaplan who cover this territory for the liquor company that has Goldstein as its ambassador of good will. Fred Eisler, the sports-minded owner of the Stuyvesant, and Dick McCarthy were also in the group.

More than an hour of light conversation in which baseball and golf strangely took precedence over boxing, Goldstein conversed on a variety of subjects. Everything, of course, except a prediction on the Walcott-Charles bout.

It's a Nice Town

Did Ruby think that Charles' added poundage would hurt his chances against Walcott or make him a harder puncher? No comment.

Did Goldstein like Kingston and the territory?

"It's a nice town and I always enjoy coming here."

Was the territory treating Goldstein's company's product good? The famous referee, Bill Hopper and Sam nodded. No complaints on that score.

Would Ruby break down and make one off-the-record prediction.

"I trust you newspaper and radio men," he smiled, "but honestly I don't know from nothing about this Walcott-Charles bout. It's being held way down in Pittsburgh, you know."

Other Area Boys Are Invited to Join New League

Meeting Friday To Set Opening Date

A total of 150 candidates reported for PONY League registration Tuesday evening at St. Mary's Field.

The PONY (Protect Our Nation's Youth) League will operate for the first time in Kingston this season and league officials said an opportunity to try out will be extended to all boys in the eligible age group from nearby communities.

Andrew Murphy III, superintendent of recreation, said that invitations to the tryouts would be extended to youngsters in surrounding communities like Connelly, Port Ewen, Lake Katrine, Hurley and East Kingston.

Any boy may try out for a team as long as he does not reach his 16th birthday before September 1, 1952. To make it clearer, any boy who is now 15 and remains 15 until the culmination of the season on Sept. 1 may try out.

League officials said they were enthusiastic about the response to the first call for registration and expressed confidence that a strong four-team league would be organized.

Big Meeting Friday

Some of the eager beavers went through informal workouts after signing up yesterday and displayed a flashy brand of baseball, Murphy said.

All sponsoring organizations have been requested to send a representative to the Friday, June 6, meeting at 8:30 p. m. at the American Legion building. Practice is scheduled earlier in the evening.

Tentative plans call for the league opener on the weekend of June 21 or Tuesday, June 24. A definite announcement will be made at Friday's meeting.

The player draft and team assignments will be completed by the end of next week.

In the meantime, all players who did not register last evening are reminded that there is still time to sign up.

Albert Winslow Heads Tuxedo Kennel Show

Tuxedo—Albert F. Winslow of Goshen has been named chairman of the 30th annual bench show of the Tuxedo Kennel Club to be held at Tuxedo Park on Saturday, July 26.

Mrs. David Wagstaff, president of the Tuxedo Kennel Club, made the announcement today.

Mrs. Wagstaff also announced that Richard Migel will serve as the club's delegate to the American Kennel Club.

Wesley F. Gill, sports editor of the Newburgh News, will be the publicity chairman for the show.

Charles 2-1 Choice To Defeat Walcott

Atlantic City, N. J., June 4 (AP)—One of the biggest mysteries in this fight training camp center, outside of how finely Ezzard Charles' mustache will be trimmed, is why the ex-champ from Cincinnati is such a big favorite to dethrone Jersey Joe Walcott in Philadelphia tomorrow night.

Not-so-lean Ezzard was rated a 2 to 1 to 3 to 1 choice, depending on where the bettors were doing their shopping, to become the first former heavyweight king in history to regain the prized crown.

Although a majority of the visiting fight writers are plunking for the 30-year-old challenger they openly admit they are doing it with fingers crossed. No one apparently has any firm conviction that Ezzard is going to win because of the heavier power in 38-year-old Jersey Joe's fists. Most of the critics figure this should be a pick 'em fight.

One-Punch Kayo

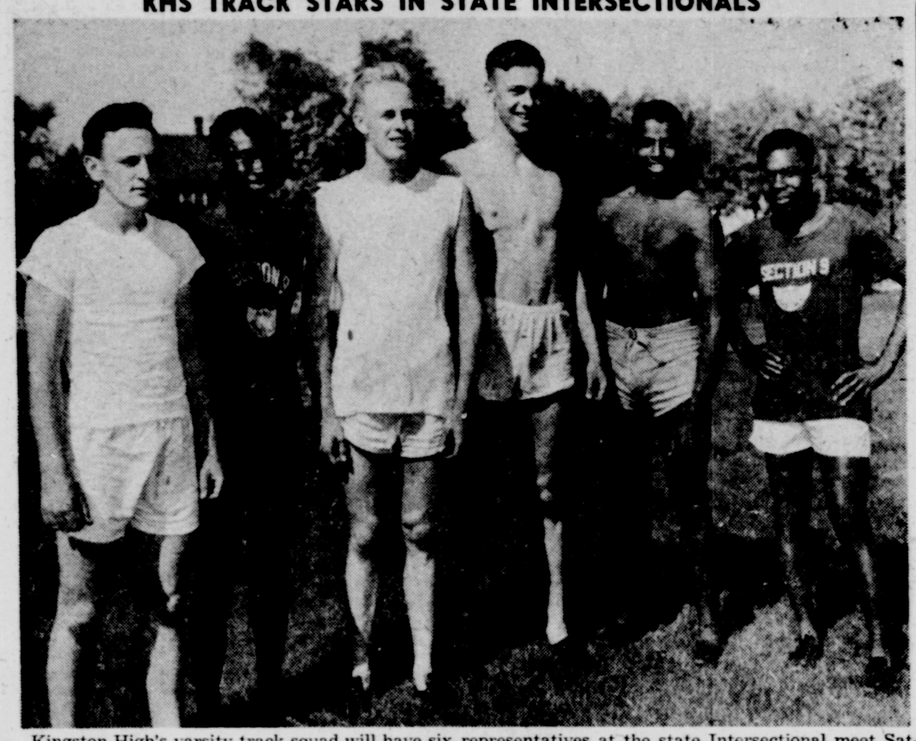

They know that the ancient gladiator from Camden is apt to put Charles away with one punch, and they know that Joe can do it with either hand. But they are going for Charles because they feel Joe is liable to come apart just like Joe Louis did against Charles and Rocky Marciano. After all, how long can Jersey Joe go?

After losses to Charles in Chicago and Detroit, Walcott finally caught up with his picture punch kayo in the seventh round in Pittsburgh last July.

And Walcott is convinced that he will do it again in Philly's huge Municipal Stadium.

"I'll be trying for a knockout," said Jersey Joe as he wound up his boxing drills. "I did it before and I can do it again. I think I have his number."

Question: How did Clark Griffith acquire his nickname, Old Fox?

Answer: Griffith earned the tag as a pitcher, not as manager or president of the Senators. He was Cap Anson's hurling ace during a phenomenal run with the famous Chicago White Stockings. Never having an over-abundance of speed, Griff performed his greatest feats after losing a good share of what he had. He developed the sharpest-breaking curve of the period.

Q. Last season there were four no-hit games pitched in the majors — by Bob Feller, Cliff Chambers and two by Allie Reynolds. On the average, how many no-hitters are turned in each year?

A. Starting from 1876, the average has been 1.078 per season.

Q. What pitcher holds the highest seasonal winning percentage mark in big league history?

A. In 1937, Cleveland's Johnny Allen won 15 of 16 for .938.

Q. Who was the last pitcher to win two complete games in one day?

A. Clevelands' Emil Levsen, Aug. 28, 1926.

Tigers-Red Sox Nine-Player Swap Biggest In Baseball History

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

They're still trying to figure out today which team got the better of yesterday's nine-player swap between the Detroit Tigers and Boston Red Sox that involved several top flight stars.

Initial returns presented no clue to the answer as the fans buzzed with excitement over what may be the biggest single trade in the history of baseball.

Only hours after the trade, former Tigers Hoot Evers and Johnny Lipon appeared in Boston uniforms against the Cleveland Indians. About the same time, ex-Red Sox Walter Dropo and Don Lenhardt took their places in the Detroit lineup against the Philadelphia Athletics.

None of the four distinguished himself in any way. The Indians shut out the revamped Red Sox, 6-0, while the Athletics humbled the made-over Tigers, 3-1.

Evers and Lipon each singled as the Red Sox collected only seven hits off the airtight pitching of Mike Garcia. Dropo got one of Detroit's eight safeties off Lefty Alex Kellner and Lenhardt got the horsecollar in four times at bat.

George Kell, key man from Boston's viewpoint, in the four-for-five transaction, failed to appear in time to take over the third base duties with the Red Sox. Veteran pitcher Dizzy Trout, fourth Tiger in the deal, was on hand but was not called upon.

In addition to Dropo and Lenhardt, the Bengals acquired shortstop Johnny Pesky, third baseman Fred Hatfield and pitcher Bill Wight. None of them saw action last night.

Easter Sparks Tribe

Luke Easter spearheaded Cleveland's triumph with his eighth homer and a single to drive in half his team's runs. The victory boosted the Indians back into the American League lead by one game over the Red Sox.

Brooklyn retained its one-game margin over the New York Giants in the National League race, defeating the Pittsburgh Pirates, 6-4, on home runs by Jackie Robinson, Carl Furillo and Gil Hodges. The Giants shellacked the third-place Chicago Cubs, 17-4, with the aid of 17 hits including a home run, three doubles and three triples.

Brilliant relief pitching by ageless Satchell Paige brought a 3-2 victory for the St. Louis Browns over the Washington Senators. Paige yielded only four hits in 5 2/3 innings of relief and singled in the winning run in the 17th. It was the ancient Negro righthander's third straight single.

Sain's Blow Wins

Another pitcher turned hitter when righthander Johnny Sain, in a pinch hitting role, smashed a long single with two out and the bases loaded in the 13th inning to drive in the run that gave the New York Yankees a 4-3 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

Rookie outfielder Wally Post drove in both Cincinnati runs with a single and homer to give the Reds a 2-1 triumph over Robin Roberts and the Philadelphia Phillies. Reliefer Frank Smith allowed only one hit in six shutout innings to gain credit for the win that enabled Cincinnati to vault over the St. Louis Cardinals into fourth place.

Rookie first baseman George Crowe slammed an eighth-inning homer, his second in two nights, to give the Boston Braves a 3-2 win over the Cards. Jim Wilson pitched a two-hitter for his third triumph. It was new manager Charlie Grimm's third successive triumph after he lost his debut last Sunday.

Jones Dairy Beats Gulfmen, 9-2 For First City League Victory

Joe Modica Stops Losers in Pinches

Because young Joe Modica pitched one of those Christy Mathewson specials, Jones Dairy scored its first City League victory yesterday and Boulevard Gulf became the first club in the circuit to lose two decisions.

The Dairymen won 9 to 2 with a steady tattoo of scoring against Jerry Bechtold and Rod Sagendorf, although they were outhit 10 to 8.

Modica was nicked for 10 safeties and walked five but was superb in the pinches leaving 12 runners stranded. Thrice he turned the Gulfmen back with the bases loaded.

Tommy Maines was the big difference between the ball clubs. He stroked three straight singles that knocked in four runs.

Link Crosby pounded a double and two singles for the Gulfmen who failed utterly in the clutch. Barringer delivered three singles for the losers. Johnny Berardi was credited with two hits in the lead-off spot for the Dairymen.

The Joneses routed Sagendorf during a three-run uprising in the third and continued to make merry at expense of his reliever. Modica meanwhile was in constant trouble with men on bases but cracked only in the fourth and sixth when the Gulfmen scored single runs.

The Jones victory left four clubs—Jones Dairy, Colonial Merchants, Wiltwyck Motors and Chez Emile—with one win apiece. Boulevard Gulf has been beaten twice and Chez Emile and Jones Dairy are each charged with a loss in early season play that has been marred by repeated postponements because of bad weather.

Pucker Davis' surprising Colonial Merchants will be on display against the powerful Wiltwyck Motors at 6:15 p. m. today. Vince Clearwater is expected to pitch against Wiltwycks' Ernie McCormick.

Skaal Is Winner

Westbury, N. Y., June 4 (AP)—Skaal won the featured Brooklyn Pace in a four-horse blanket finish last night at the Roosevelt Raceway Grand Circuit meeting in 2:04 2/5. Hugh Bell drove the winner for the Saunders-Mils Stable of Toledo, Ohio. The five-year-old bay horse eked out his triumph in a quick brush from behind to score a head victory over Casanova. Englishman was third.

Fourth Washout At Rhinebeck Track

Rain again postponed the double feature stock car racing program scheduled for the Rhinebeck Speedway Saturday night.

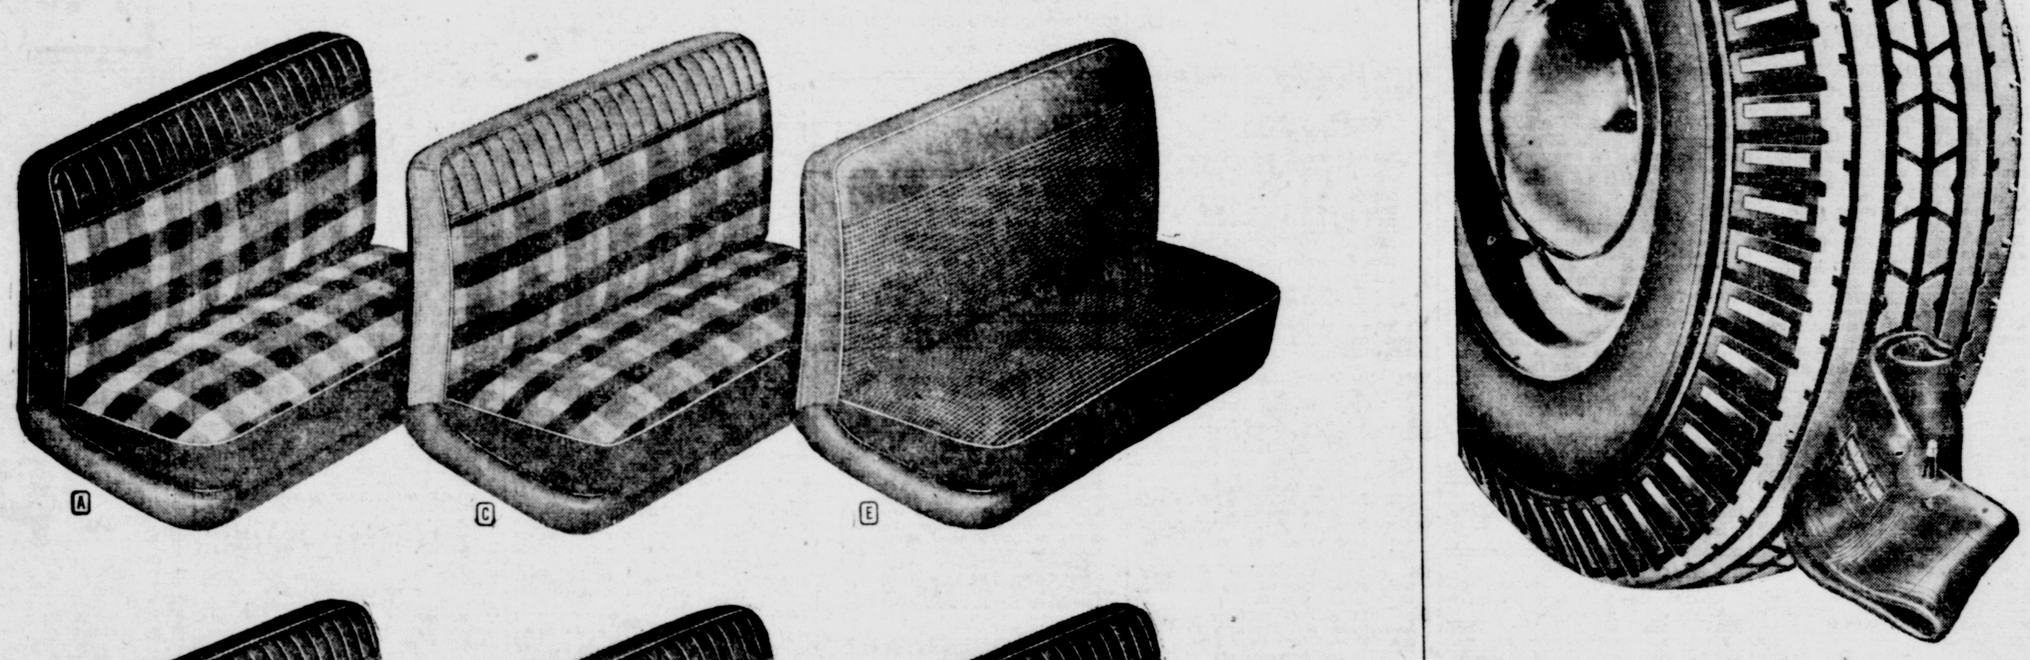

"Pappy" Hough, Jim Reed, Russ Truelove, Bob Disbrow, Bill Brown, Charlie Barry, Doug Garrison, Bob Tator, Bill Collville and other well-known drivers were among the many speed jockeys who had already arrived when the inclement weather forced the cancellation. For eight of the boys it was their first appearance at the Rhinebeck track.

After four successive weeks of rain interference, Rhinebeck Speedway hopes for clear skies next Saturday night, so that a thrilling NASCAR competition with two 25-lap main events can be run.

Tax Extender Approved

New York, June 4 (AP)—The City Council yesterday approved a three-year extension of the city's three per cent sales tax which is expected to raise $205,000,000 annually. Eight Unbeaten In Masters Play

Milwaukee, June 4 (AP)—Eight undefeated and 24-once-beaten bowlers are still in the running for the championship of the Masters' Invitational double elimination match tournament. The meet is being held in conjunction with the American Bowling Congress tournament.

The undefeated maple maulers include Junie McMahon of Chicago, the national match game champion; Andy Varipapa of Hempstead, N. Y., and Ned Day of West Allis, Wis., former national kings; Steve Nagy of Cleveland, present ABC all events leader, and Charles Polich of Caspian, Mich.; Don Nesta of Watertown, Wis., Willard Taylor of S. Charleston, W. Va., and Jack Soelberg, Portland, Ore.

Defending champion Lee Jouglard of Detroit heads the list of once-beaten keglers, all of whom are in the losers' bracket. The winner of the losers' division will meet the winners' bracket victor for the title Saturday night.

Top matches last night in the winners' bracket saw McMahon hand Bill Lillard of Chicago his first defeat, 861-802, and Polich, aided by a 269 single game, down Herb Kosanke of Milwaukee, 837-747.

Betsy Rawls's Transcontinental Win Crowns Her Champion of Women's Golf

Great Neck, N. Y., June 4 (AP)—Betsy Rawls, 24, a Phi Beta Kappa with an educated swing, is the new queen of women's professional golf, but she finds it hard to shake the shadow of "The Babe."

"The Babe (Mrs. Babe Didrikssen Zaharias) is still the best," the Austin, Tex., miss said yesterday after adding the rich Trans-Continental championship to her National Open crown. "When the Babe's right, nobody can touch her."

Miss Rawls, who majored in physics at the University of Texas and then gave it all up to chase par and dollars, took over the undisputed No. 1 place in the ladies' ranks with her record-shattering triumph in the cross-country event.

She supplanted the ailing Mrs. Zaharias as the season's leading money winner, boosting her winnings to $9,510.08. She won the $5,000 Trans-Continental first prize and plucked $150 on the side for finishing seventh in the last 36-hole leg.

Mrs. Zaharias had to withdraw from the circuit recently to undergo an operation, but Miss Rawls' triumph was virtually in the books before this misfortune.

The Texas newcomer, a pro of only 16 months, had an almost insurmountable nine-stroke lead over the Babe going into the final 36 holes. Betsy shot a pair of 78's—Saturday at Scarsdale and yesterday at Deep Dale here—for a 144-hole total of 590. This clipped 11 strokes off the tournament record shared by Mrs. Zaharias and Patty Berg in tying for the title last year before Miss Berg won the playoff.

Blue JVs Edge Maroons, 3 to 2

Young Jack Houghtaling held the Poughkeepsie High School Jayvees to seven hits and struck out 12 batters but the fates contrived to send him down to a 3-2 setback, Monday at the Bridge City.

Three of the seven hits off Houghtaling, who did not issue a walk, came in the bottom of the seventh to break a 2-2 deadlock. The crusher was a little blooper into centerfield.

The Maroons collected seven hits off Ernie Doxsey, who fanned three. Turck, Marable and Schroeder collected two hits each for Coach Al Gruner's squad. Reed's triple for the Blue yearlings was the only extra base blow of the contest.

The boxscore:

Saunders Promoted By Historic Track

The promotion of Al Saunders to the position of race consultant and the appointment of Paul F. Keim as race secretary for Historic Track were announced this week by Russell W. Hart.

Veteran Race Secretary Saunders will continue his long association with the "Cradle of the Trotter" in an advisory capacity.

Mr. Keim, a native of Newark, N. J., does not find the Historic Track surroundings new. He assisted Mr. Saunders at Historic from 1930 to 1946. Mr. Keim also served as clerk of the course at the Middletown, Flemington, Trenton, Mineola, Riverhead and Orangeburg fairs.

Lions Welcome 17 From Convention, Hear Capt. Hickey

The Kingston Lions Club met at the Governor Clinton Hotel at noon on Tuesday to welcome back its 17 members who attended the state convention at Syracuse last week and to hear an address on local history by Capt. Andrew S. Hickey, U. S. Navy, retired, author of the forthcoming book, "The Story of Kingston."

During his research for the book, Captain Hickey uncovered numerous interesting incidents in the life of the city, some of which he related to Lions Club members. The book, which is one of the American Heritage Series, is scheduled for publication by Stratford House, Inc., New York, about June 20.

Presiding at the meeting was President Alwin Feuerstein, who last week was elected chairman of the Lions State Council and district governor for District 20-0. He will become immediate past president of the local club on June 11, when the present district governor, Edward Light, and International Counselor Paul Patchin install the club's new officers.

Will Preside at Placid

District 20-0 includes Columbia, Dutchess, Greene, Ulster, Orange and Sullivan counties, with a total of 36 individual clubs.

As chairman of the state council, Feuerstein will preside at the 1953 Lions state convention, which will be held at Lake Placid.

Attending last week's state convention with Feuerstein were 16 other members of the Kingston Lions Club. The convention was the biggest state convention of the group, with about 1,000 Lions registered and 400 wives accompanying them. John J. Brown, state secretary-treasurer, reported a total of 15,157 Lions in the state as of May 1, a net gain of 1,098 over the past year. A gain of 24 new clubs was also reported.

Among the speakers at the convention was R. Roy Keaton, director general of Lions International. He reported that Lions International claims a membership of 445,816 men in 4,513 clubs in 37 countries.

Resolutions passed at the state convention included one endorsing an increase of 50 cents in International dues and an additional 50 cents for four years only to aid in purchasing a headquarters building for Lions International. Also passed was a resolution instructing state officers to contact state leaders of other national organizations to sponsor in every community next year a "Know Your America Week" in June.

Kelly Appeal Is Argued Before Highest Court

On Monday of this week the William H. Kelly appeal was argued before the Court of Appeals at Albany and the matter now rests with that court for a determination. When that court will decide the matter is not known. It is believed that the court will take some time before deciding the matter.

William H. Kelly was convicted of murder, first degree, for the deer rifle slaying of Mrs. Eliose McHugh, 44, on Main street on the morning of May 22, 1950, as she was walking to work.

The case was first tried in County Court in September 1950 following a first degree indictment by the grand jury. He was sentenced to death at Sing Sing prison. An appeal was taken and the Court of Appeals reversed the conviction on a technicality and returned the case for retrial. The case was retried in November 1951 and on November 28, 1951, Kelly was again sentenced to death in the electric chair following a guilty verdict by the jury.

Must Be Reviewed

As a matter of law an appeal must be taken in a first degree murder case and the matter must be reviewed by the highest court in the state. Whitman Knapp of New York city and Howard C. St. John, counsel for Kelly filed notice of an appeal on December 20, 1951. That appeal was argued Monday.

District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn, Assistant District Attorney James Abernethy and Former Assistant District Attorney Vincent G. Connelly, who aided in preparation of the brief, appeared before the Court of Appeals. Mr. St. John and Whitman Knapp appeared for Kelly. The briefs were filed with the court and District Attorney Bruhn, argued the case for The People and Mr. Knapp argued for defendant. Argument by Bruhn took over an hour and Knapp argued for about an hour and a half.

Nash Held on Charge

Joseph F. Nash, 35, of 100 O'Neil street, was arrested early this afternoon at police headquarters by Lt. William Leonard on a warrant charging Nash with impairing the morals of a minor. He is scheduled for appearance before City Judge Raymond J. Mino tomorrow morning. Lt. Leonard said the arrest was made following a statement taken from a 14-year-old boy. Nash was arrested on a similar charge in 1950, Lt. Leonard said.

Production Resumes

Farmingdale, N. Y., June 4 (AP)—Full production was resumed today at the huge plant of Republic Aviation Corp., after a two-day wildcat strike which the company said cost more Thunderjet planes than several weeks' action in Korea. Picket lines were withdrawn last night, and there was no interference when the day shift reported for work today. The pickets had been posted by production workers who had defied their union leaders in the AFL International Association of Machinists.

Ferry Launching Mishap Holds Up Boat for Two Days

The ferry Prospect built by Island Dock for the Shelter Island and Greenport Ferry Company failed to skid into the Rondout creek at its scheduled launching time today.

The craft, believed to be the first ferryboat launched here since 1875, got a slantwise start down the slides and probably will remain suspended for at least two days, it was indicated this morning.

A difference in sawing time on the two sides when the barriers were released for the ferry's ride into the water, apparently caused the trouble, a spokesman for Island Dock said.

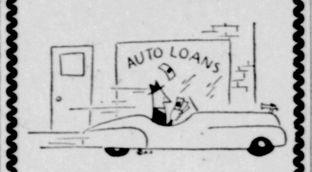

One end of the craft stuck and as it moved sideways one side went ahead for about three feet and the other five to six feet.

It was to be the 201st launching at Island Dock since 1917 and no other similar mishap can be recalled in that time.

The answers to everyday insurance problems
By HERMAN J. EATON

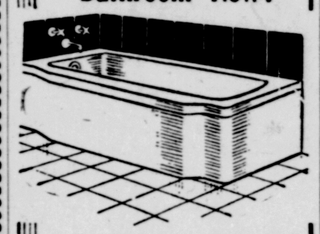

QUESTION: Is it necessary to tell an insurance company that there is a mortgage or time payment contract on a car?

ANSWER: Yes. There is a place for that information on all auto insurance applications and to withhold it would be to make a false application. If the car is mortgaged after the insurance has been placed the company must be notified.

*If you'll address your own insurance questions to this office we'll try to give you the correct answers and there will be NO CHARGE OR OBLIGATION OF ANY KIND.
